COURT OF APPEALS UPHOLDS CONTRACT

The Bitulithic Ordinances are Valid, and the Contracts are Binding.

Opinion Filed Today in the Appellate Court Decid- ing Paducah's Ex parte Suit.

PADUCAH'S EX PARTE SUIT AFFIRMED

Frankfort, Ky., Nov. 15.—The judgment of the McCracken circuit court in the case of the city of Paducah, ex parte, involving the constitutionality of certain city ordinances, was today affirmed by the court of appeals. The court below held valid certain ordinances looking to the improvement of streets and sidewalks in Paducah.

The above telegram marks the end of the farcical effort to stop the bitulithic improvements on Kentucky avenue, Jefferson and other streets, and enables the city to proceed, with the knowledge that the ordinances are valid and the contract good, and that the work may now progress uninterrupted.

The contract for reconstructing these streets was awarded sometime ago after the necessary ordinances had been passed by the general council. The board of works selected bitulithic material for the greater part of the streets, a committee of prominent citizens who had visited St. Louis and made a thorough inspection of the bitulithic streets there, reporting in favor of the bitulithic material. It is said that a majority of the property owners also wanted bitulithic macadam, and the board of works selected it and awarded the contract to the Southern Bitulithic company. The council ratified the action, and everything was running along smoothly and a sub-contractor had already torn up part of one street under the contract, when the city solicitor decided that the ordinances were defective, and the contract invalid.

The bitulithic company declined to take this view of the matter, or to make any effort to change the opinion of the city officials who took the position that the contract was not good. The contractors simply ignored it, and the work under the sub-contract has proceeded day by day while the city was trying to prove that a contract that it made and ratified and allowed work to proceed under it, was invalid.

The city filed an ex parte petition in circuit court and Judge Reed after hearing the evidence and arguments, a short time ago, decided that the ordinances were valid, and the contract under them valid.

An appeal was taken and City Solicitor James Campbell, Jr., went to Frankfort and had the case advanced in order to get it settled as soon as possible. The court of appeals accommodated Paducah and today reported its decision, which now ends the case, it is presumed, for all time to come.

KIDNAPING EASY FOR BANDIT RAISULI

He Has Now Copped Out Rich Man for Ransom.

The Present Captive Is Under the Protection of the Belgian Legation.

BANDIT DEFEATS ALL EUROPE.

Tangier, Nov. 15.—Raisuli's appeal for foreign ransom has been stimulated by the capture of Mr. Pordien, which brought in $70,000, and the capture of the French protegee, by which he netted $3,500 that he evidently decided to pursue this lucrative business, and his men by his own captured Sunday, near the gate of the principal market place at Tangier a Moor named Alhdesan Akabolu.

The man was under protection of the Belgian legation. Alhdesan was a guide, who accompanied the Baron de Forest on his recent trip along the coast of Morocco. He is reported to possess considerable wealth, according to Moorish ideas of wealth.

This, in fact, is undoubtedly what stimulated him out to capture Raisuli's governor of the district where Alhdesan's property is located, and thus is accurately informed concerning his financial position.

An ominous feature in connection with these captures is that the captives are invariably under foreign protection, and by the treaty are inviolate. They can be arrested only in accordance with the principles of European jurisprudence.

Raisuli, however, inhabits a fortified stronghold a couple of hours ride from here, named Zinat, where Alhdesan has been carried. In his circle Raisuli defies the remonstrances of the meshren, the threats of the Sultan and the protestations of the legations. In fact, nothing short of a serious punitive expedition is likely to convince him that Europeans or European proteges may not be regarded as his prey.

IMMENSE CROWD AT CAIRO TODAY

Eleventh Convention of Ohio Valley Association Begins.

The Hotels Overflowing—Steamboats Are Being Used for Accommodations.

The Paducah delegation to the Ohio Valley Improvement Association left at 9:30 o'clock this morning for Cairo, headed by Secretary D. W. Coons, of the Commercial club. There were five or six went by train and boat, and others are expected to go down tonight and tomorrow.

It is likely that the steamboats in that vicinity will have to be pressed into service temporarily, as well as a number of private residences, in order to accommodate the visitors.

A long distance message from Cairo to Capt. A. J. Powell, of Cairo, this morning, stated that every hotel there was crowded until no more people could be accommodated and that many were without rooms.

As he represents the Harriet Lane and as the large towboat Barrett is here, he ordered her cleaned up at once so the rooms on her can be used. He will make no charge for them. This will be a great convenience for the river men and others who are there attending the session of the Ohio Valley Improvement Association, which will come to a close in three days. It is probably the biggest meeting the association has ever held.

Capt. Powell will leave tonight for Cairo to attend the meeting. He is a very enthusiastic river man and will to all he can in agitating the nine-foot stage from Pittsburg to Cairo.

The first meeting was called to order at the opera house this afternoon at 2 o'clock by Mayor George Parsons, chairman of the committee.

"It's going to be a winner," said Col. John L. Vane, the vice president of the Ohio Valley Improvement Association in speaking of the eleventh annual convention.

The hotel registers show that branch at men from Evansville, Huntington, Cincinnati, Louisville, Ironton, Paducah, and other important towns of the Ohio Valley are here.

The program for this afternoon is as follows:

2:00—Convention called to order by Hon. George Parsons, vice-president of the Ohio Valley Improvement association and chairman of the local executive committee.

Prayer—Rev. W. P. Morris, pastor of M. E. church.

Music.

Welcome by the state of Illinois. Hon. Charles S. Deneen, governor of Illinois.

Cairo's welcome to the convention. Hon. George Parsons, mayor of Cairo.

Cairo Board of Trade welcome. Hon. John S. Alshorpe.

Commercial club welcome. President E. A. Smith, vice-president of the Ohio Valley Improvement association.

The president will open the formal business of the convention by announcing the rules which in the absence of objections will govern the proceedings.

Announcement by the president of committee on resolutions, resolutions, miscellaneous business, nominations and memorial to the late Capt. John P. Dravo.

Four cities are after the next meeting of the association, Wheeling, W. Va.; Portsmouth, O.; Louisville, Ky., and Steubenville, O.

The following were in the city this morning en route to Cairo to attend the convention.

Elmer E. Scott, of Madison, Ind.; Dr. J. H. Wade, M. W. Thomas, Col. Douglas Putnam, Charles J. Lorde, Jacob Lech, and S. P. Willis, of Ashland, Ky.

PACKERS' CASES

Will Not Be Taken Up Until January the 3rd.

Chicago, Nov. 15.—The witnesses subpoenaed in the case against the packers have been notified by the U. S. district attorney's office that they need not appear in court until January 3. The official announcement that the case will not be commenced this year causes much surprise and speculation.

HOSPITAL CHANGES AT LAST ORDERED

The Basement to be Fitted Out by the City.

It Will Afford More Room for the Pay Patients and Be Good Improvement.

BIDS ARE ADVERTISED FOR

Mayor D. A. Yeiser is today advertising for bids for changes to the basement of Riverside hospital in order to afford more room for the city patients and vacate the upper floors for the pay patients.

The cost of the improvement will not be large. It is believed that it can be made for $1,000, possibly less. The hospital board is very anxious to make the hospital perfect in every particular, and as soon as bids are opened and the present work completed, the institution will be almost if not quite complete.

At present the private patients in screened wards have to pay about $3 a week board, while those in private wards have to pay $15.

The board, by making more room, can establish a different grade of prices for patients, and thus no doubt add to the patronage of the hospital. The hospital is now paying its way well. It is attracting the attention of doctors all over this end of the state, and being the most complete institution of its kind this side of Louisville, they are all sending patients here whenever possible, knowing that nothing is lacking to give them the best modern treatment.

The hospital receipts now sometimes exceed the expenditures, and never fall below which is a great deal better than the way when the hospital cost the city from $400 to $500 a month, and there were none of the modern conveniences.

Mayor Yeiser expects to open the bids and award the contract within the next two weeks, and the work can be done in a short time.

NEW BRIDGE

Is to Be Erected Over the Ohio River at Owensboro.

Owensboro, Ky., Nov. 15.—A movement was started by the Owensboro Business Men's Association for the organization of a company to erect a bridge across the Ohio river at this point to the Indiana shore. It is proposed to capitalize the company at $600,000. Several local business men have already expressed their willingness to subscribe for stock. It is understood that there are several northern roads desiring a southern outlet at this point. The Louisville and Nashville, Louisville, Henderson and St. Louis and the Illinois Central roads enter this city at present.

Elevator in Courthouse Fell. Indianapolis, Nov. 15.—The elevator in the Marion county courthouse fell from the third story to the basement today and three persons were injured, one fatally.

Anyway, a woman has more reason for believing lots of the things she does than a man for his politics.

BOARD OF WORKS NOT TO MEET TODAY

Two of the Members Are Out of the City.

Very Little More Street Work to Be Done This Year by the City Authorities.

MR. ELLIOTT IS EXONERATED.

No meeting of the board of public works will be held this afternoon because there is not a majority of the board in the city. Mr. E. P. Noble, president of the board, stated this morning that as Capt. S. A. Fowler and Mr. John Rinkoff, the other two members, were absent from the city, it would be impossible to hold a session.

Mr. Rinkoff has gone to Cairo to attend the meeting of the Ohio Valley Improvement association, which will be in session there for three days, but he will likely return in the morning and Capt. Fowler, who is on his bridal trip, will also likely be home soon. He and his bride are expected to return tonight.

President Noble said that there was nothing of importance to come up. He said that no street contracts were to be let, as all the street work for this year had been contracted for, the board, not desiring to do any further improvements on the streets before next spring. Of course the work now in progress will be finished if the weather permits.

Third street to Fourth on Broad is still incomplete because the contractors have not yet received the brick to finish the job. Mr. Noble stated that he had been informed that there are enough brick on the way to finish the work and they would be here in a few days, when the contractors would at once renew work. It can be completed in a few days, when the thoroughfare will be inspected and if found all right will be accepted and the entire street will be open to traffic. At present only a part of it is open.

The matter of Street Inspector Alonzo Elliott hauling brick in one of the city's wagons, which Councilman Agnew had asked the council to investigate, has been looked into by President Noble and he says that Mr. Elliott simply hauled the brick in one of the city's wagons because at the time he could find no other wagon to do the work and that Mr. Elliott paid the city $1.50 for the use of it. The matter will now be dropped, Mr. Elliott being completely exonerated.

WENT BACK.

Non-Union Miners Did Not Like the Looks of Things.

Sturgis, Ky., Nov. 15.—The carload of imported laborers recently brought to Sturgis, Ky., by the West Kentucky Coal company were induced to return to St. Louis by the local mine workers, who supplied them with railway fare to that city. The men claimed the company misrepresented conditions here by telling them they were wanted to open new coal properties and that they did not know a strike was on. Many of them were members of the union.

The company have not yet been able to start up the shaft, but are expecting another carload of men, and despite the labor troubles are preparing to operate on a large scale. Their latest move was the purchase of the local land company's interest in city and suburban property.

Joyful News for the Many Thousands Who Suffer From Asthma.

St. Peter, Minn., Nov. 14.—Excitement prevails here over the complete recovery from asthma of H. H. Sporing, an influential and respected citizen of this place.

He had retired from active business on account of his affliction, but as a result of his recovery has resumed his former occupation.

He procured the asaceto from the Austrian dispensary, 32 West Twenty-fifth street, New York City, which is commissioned to send a trial treatment free to all sufferers from asthma, catarrh and bronchitis who write for it.

Thursday Evening—The D. A. R. benefit concert for the U. S. S. Paducah silver service fund, by local talent.

Friday night, Frank Stewart Regan "Cartoonist." Benefit Trimble Street M. E. Church.

"What Women Will Do" was witnessed by a fairly large crowd at the Kentucky theater last night, and is a very good play of its kind, interpreted by a capable company. The play gave satisfaction in every particular and the sensational climax was liberally applauded.

C. H. Livingston, business manager of the Van Dyke Eaton Co., was the guest of Manager Roberts of The Kentucky yesterday. This company will appear all next week at the Kentucky theater.

Murray & Mack, favorites in Paducah for several years past, arrived at noon today with a big company and are ready to again greet their friends in Paducah. They are the same old Murray and Mack and have this year, in "Around the Town," one of their happiest hits. Mr. Mack was formerly a partner of James E. Engle, of Paducah, in a number of theatrical enterprises, and is well-known here, and both Murray and Mack have a reputation all over the country that guarantees them fine houses wherever they go. They will no doubt find many friends and admirers at the Kentucky this evening. Their company is one of the best ever gotten together and the chorus is large and up to date.

REPLY RECEIVED BY MAYOR YEISER

To the Letter from Boston Men Regarding Street Car Troubles.

Paducah, Ky., Nov. 11, 1905.
To His Honor, Mayor Yeiser, Paducah, Ky.

Honorable Sir:—
An evening paper published a letter purporting to have been received by you from the firm of Stone & Webster, bearing upon the present situation of the locked out street car men.

Permit me to correct some of its fabulous statements. The most remarkable features are its admissions and denials. They have truly depicted how industry may be paralyzed by labor trouble, but immediately proceed to ignore the fact that they are the people who directly forced the present trouble here and they seek to indict a few "labor agitators," and would have the world believe that they are the instigators of this affair. The fact remains that no labor agitator, so-called, had ever been in this city until it was made necessary by the advent of Stone & Webster, the union labor crushers.

Upon their arrival they immediately started the ball rolling (that is a term applied by their own representatives here when they began to discharge union men). After they had discharged 14 of the union men, and told them that it was because they belonged to the union that they were discharged, one of these dreadful labor agitators was sent for to come here and see if this threatened labor trouble (threatened by the street car officials) could not be prevented. I answered that summons, and I can swear before God that for nearly one month's time I have plead for peace and used every honorable means to secure the same. The Central Labor Union aided in efforts and then Your Honor was appealed to the Retail Merchants Association, and the Common Council but every effort for peace so far has been fruitless.

Bear in mind, the only question that has ever been asked of this street car company, was, could a union man work for them without being discriminated against on account of such affiliation?

The business people and the citizens of Paducah have acknowledged the justice of our grievance, and the injustice of this street car corporation's position.

The statement of Stone & Webster, that, "We do sincerely believe that any action on the part of the city government and the citizens of Paducah, that would indicate to the outside world that new capital which has been invited to locate in the city was being treated unfairly, or that the city government or the business men were upholding agitators in an attempt to force the closed-shop principles on business enterprises, would be the most serious blow to the future prosperity and growth of Paducah that could possibly occur,"—is a veiled insinuation that I know the intelligent people of Paducah will resent. No agitator or union has asked of them to employ non-union men, and the citizens of Paducah, or the city government, have never been asked to support us in a "closed-shop" contest.

If any such injustice is being circulated broadcast, against the business interests of Paducah, or to favor the standing of the union working men of this city, the malicious misrepresentation, emanates from the same source that is trying to destroy the Trades Union workers. The "open-shop" that Stone &

Webster would have you believe they stand for, is not the "open-shop" that is generally understood to be meant by that term for we have stood ready to make a so-called "open-shop" agreement from the very inception of this controversy up to the present time, and we still stand ready to comply with the same conditions, proof of which must be acknowledged on the part of Paducah citizens who know that we offered to leave our case in the hands of any judge upon the bench, any reliable committee of citizens, or any committee of business men of Paducah, and we would abide by their decision. The fact that the company refused to enter into any such understanding, is positive evidence of their bad faith in regard to their own assertion. They have positively declined to state that they would not discharge an employee on account of his membership in a union, but they have repeatedly told them they would be discharged if they did belong to a union. Necessarily that means, absolutely a "non-union shop," which charge they have never denied.

The letter states that they "regret that more time could not have transpired since making our latest move to Paducah before any misunderstanding arose." I venture that to be a very truthful statement, for it is well known that had they been here longer the subtle influence that they know so well how to use would have been so successfully put into operation that if they did not hold the strings of government in their hands, where they could direct its operation at their beck and call, it would have been no fault of theirs, but conclusive evidence that the local government had remained loyal to their trust in the interests of all of its citizens, and refused to be the servant of a corporation.

The letter states "we will compensate no discrimination." That statement is false, or else their local representatives here have misinterpreted their and are not carrying out the company's policy. They are making promises to you and to the public which they absolutely refuse to carry out with their employees, and as evidence of good faith of what I say we offer to submit the matter to a board of arbitration, but this the company dare not do, for they know full well that the public would soon know of the ploy that they are trying to practice upon their employees.

If they are sincere in what they say why don't they settle this unpleasantness, that they are pleading to you as likely to destroy the future business interests of this city?

If they have your welfare so much at heart, and feel so deeply grieved surely they would arbitrate a simple question of that kind before they would continue to work the destruction of your prosperity. It is hypocrisy of the worst character, and their smooth juggling with words to the contrary will deceive no man who will do his own thinking, and refuse to allow Stone & Webster or their local advisers to do it for them.

The business men of Paducah know full well that no such trouble ever existed in this city before. They have been capable of dealing harmoniously with the laboring class of people, and all together have contributed in building up your little city and making of the prosperous thriving place that it is for business investment.

Does it not appeal to you that something is radically wrong somewhere, that this new concern should immediately involve your city in such distress, and then have the audacity to tell you that they will ride roughshod over all of your future interests, if you do not bow to their will?

I leave to Your Honor and to the business people who have taken this matter up with the company, if that has not in every instance been their attitude? That is what you have all told me and I believe you. You have all admitted that our cause, as we have presented it to you is just and we stand ready to make good every statement that we have made. Then why should we give up the pleasant relations that have been enjoyed here between employers and employees, up to the present time, at the behest of a concern that has scarcely set foot upon your soil before they attempt to destroy the operations of affairs throughout the whole city, regardless of any consideration of what we know to be right and just?

Is it possible that there is a speculative movement behind this? Does this depression of conditions force a fluctuation in stocks and bonds, giving them an opportunity for financial gain? Will it "freeze out" any small stockholders and force them to sell to a concern that is making a business of dealing in street railway property? Will they go so far as to mislead some of your best local citizens and get them to accept official positions and then force them to stand such bosses that later on they will be easy plucking?

Their carefully worded communication that in reality says little or nothing, is a snare and a nightmare. It partially had the desired effect. It frightened the merchants into flopping over to the company, to some extent, but they will wake up some day and realize their mistake.

I deny the charge they make about conditions in Chicago, and the Middle West. I have been in Chicago most of the time for the past three years and I know that I can prove the statement that Chicago was never more prosperous than at the present time. Her building activity was never greater, and the additional enterprises were never more extensive. I will also make the assertion that the cities which are the most thoroughly organized are the best business centers, and the best conditions prevail throughout the entire business world, and I defy successful contradiction.

In one paragraph their letter states, "we would be most pleased to arrange a meeting with you or with your citizens, did we not feel that such a meeting would give to the situation far more prominence than it really merits." A little further along the letter says, "we feel it only just and

situation is as it exists today in Paducah, and seems to be tending." One moment, to suit the fancy of a thought, they tell you a conference with you or your citizens would give the situation more prominence than it merits; another thought, sort of an after-thought, they advise you of the very grave danger of the situation. If you can interpret any intelligence from such paradoxical expressions no doubt it would greatly enlighten the public mind as to what Stone & Webster really would like to convey to them. However there is just as much enlightenment in these apparently contradictory statements as there is in the statement that they will run an "open-shop," and then absolutely refuse to do it.

I wish to assure you that there can be no question of doubt as to the loyalty of the hundred of trades unionists, who are citizens of Paducah, and are deeply interested in its welfare. Their homes are here, their all. They have attempted to resist this unjust attack upon them, and they stand united. They have appealed to those whom they have a right to expect to support them if they are in the right. They plead with you and their fellow-citizens of Paducah in their hour of need. They only ask for justice, surely that will not be denied? If they have made a mistake and are in the wrong, they are willing to be advised aright. The efforts of Stone & Webster in this situation is as it exists today in Paducah, and seems to be tending." One moment, to suit the fancy of a thought, they tell you a conference with you or your citizens would give the situation more prominence than it merits; another thought, sort of an after-thought, they advise you of the very grave danger of the situation. If you can interpret any intelligence from such paradoxical expressions no doubt it would greatly enlighten the public mind as to what Stone & Webster really would like to convey to them. However there is just as much enlightenment in these apparently contradictory statements as there is in the statement that they will run an "open-shop," and then absolutely refuse to do it.

Thanking your honor, and the citizens of Paducah, who have so kindly interested themselves in this matter in the past, and relying upon your future good judgment to give us merited assistance, to obtain only what is right, I beg to remain, most sincerely yours,

C. O. PRATT,
Chairman General Executive Board of the Street Railway Employees' Union.

Daily Thought.
"Perplexities are self-created where people omit and then dare to live without some clear, sharp meaning in their lives."

CUTTING DOWN THE TAX RATE.

The efforts to curtail city expenses will meet with hearty approval. Every taxpayer seems to favor it. A number of municipal offices can be consolidated and the salaries now paid be reduced or cut off entirely, without injuring the people in any way. It is understood that plans are now in process of formation by which the city can cut down its salary expenses alone $2,500 or more a year. This coming year the city hospital will be little or no expense, and may prove a source of revenue. Mayor Yelver may prove no obstruction in reducing expenses, as he says he is in favor of it if it can be done, but he does not think that it can be done the coming year to the extent that the members elect desire to reduce it.

All that is necessary to do is to use a little common sense and judgment however, and where an office can be dispensed with without injury to the convenience or welfare of the public, it should be done.

There is talk of reductions in the police department, but nothing definite has been decided. It is understood that the new members of the boards recognize the value of city detective or plain clothes work, and there is no doubt but that Paducah's detectives have done a great deal of good work. Plain clothes work is an auxiliary of every city police force, and it can safely be predicted that Paducah, having tried it and found it invaluable, will not be quick to dispense with it.

Every taxpayer who has been heard to express an opinion, however, wants a reduction of tax rate, and the various plans for accomplishing it are being eagerly discussed.

Well, Judge Hargis is to contest, as indicated by the following in the Frankfort State Journal: "The State Journal has a straight tip that Judge Hargis will contest the election in Breathitt on several grounds, the chief being that the clerk failed to deliver the ballots to the clerks. In three of the strongest Democratic districts, and that the election was held in them at other places than named by the court. We do not know what figure this will cut, but a well posted lawyer from that section says it will be easy to set the election aside."

The ministers and officials of Louisville are engaged in an earnest discussion of a minister's right to take an interest in politics. The following telegram sent to a St. Louis paper by a former pastor of a church there, who is now in New York, may be of some interest to the people in Louisville in reaching some kind of conclusion: "New York, Nov. 11. I am sorry to hear that my successor in charge of the Second Baptist church of St. Louis, Dr. Bittling, has tabooed politics in the pulpit. Dr. Anderson, one of my predecessors, made the Second church famous by his political stand in 1861, because his church stood by him. Dr. Bittling has poor advisers. In every political issue there is a moral side. The church can not stand for political hypocrisy. Woe to the preacher who does not recognize this! If religion has nothing to do with political questions, what is it good for?"

"W. W. BOYD."

The Retail Merchants' Association is pleased with the success of its plan for refunding money, which was inaugurated a short time ago. It is attracting attention all over his section, and when it becomes more fully known, its effects will be excellent. At present the merchants who are members refund railroad fare on purchases of $30 or more worth of goods to those living within a radius of seventy-five miles. More progressive merchants than those of Paducah cannot be found, and their rapid strides in modern business methods is an advantage to the city as well as to the merchants themselves.

PADUCAH THROWS OFF THE YOKE.

Paducah seemed indifferent, and the Democratic leaders felt perfectly safe. But when the returns were all in every Democrat but one was beaten. The Paducah Sun gives the credit to the independent voter, and from the vantage ground of a well-earned victory sends its congratulations to Louisville.

That is the position in which Louisville stands before the whole state. Outside observers understand the situation here. They are familiar with the perpetual falsehoods of the Courier-Journal. They know how the police were marshaled in 1899 to overawe the state convention. They listen to the tales of returning brethren plundered by the Amalgamated Union of Crooks and Police, and they wonder at the patience of the city of Louisville. Today before the state and before the country Louisville stands the one place where a worse than Russian police has clubbed a whole city into temporary unconsciousness.

Yet from pondering over her own humiliation, Louisville turns aside for a moment to send her congratulations to Paducah and to Breathitt county.

Y. M. C. A. SCHEDULE.

The Liabilities Are $1,170.23—Assets $800.

A schedule of the assets and liabilities of the Young Men's Christian Association, which assigned a few days ago, was filed today in the county court by Harry C. Stiles, assignee. The liabilities as listed are $1,170.23, principally local creditors. The assets are estimated from $600 to $700. The list of assets is property owned by the association and will have to be sold to bring this sum.

The only secured debt is that of W. H. Rieke for $75 for rent to November 15, 1905. There was due Secretary Blake Godfrey $30.

There is no prospect of the association being revived soon.

Editor Brownlow to Leave.
Editor Louis Brownlow, of the News-Democrat, has resigned his position on account of his health, and leaves shortly for Nashville. He will either return to Washington as a special correspondent, or accept a position in Nashville on the Banner. His successor has not been secured, but it is understood may be Mr. Goodwin, formerly editor of the Nashville News, and now on an Atlanta paper.

People and Pleasant Events

It Was a Halloween Wedding.

The Regina "West," of Regina, British Columbia, gives the following about the marriage there of Miss Eugenie Clark, of Paducah, and Mr. Henry Horace Clough, of Regina:

"Few people who passed a quiet wedding party returning from St. Paul's church on Halloween would guess the mission of the happy couple who less than an hour before had linked hands before the altar, while Rev. G. C. Hill pronounced them man and wife.

"The contracting parties were Miss Eugenie Clark, of Paducah, Kentucky, and Mr. Henry Horace Clough, of British Columbia, who has been on a business trip to this city for several months. By a previous arrangement the wedding was to take place at the home of the bride's mother at Paducah at a later date, but Miss Clark was in San Francisco as a delegate to the convention of United Daughters of the Confederacy, on Oct. 3rd, and from there she went to Portland, Ore., and while attending the exposition it was decided that the wedding would take place at Regina where Mr. Clough was residing. These arrangements were consummated by the ceremony at St. Paul's on the late mentioned, and the married couple are now guests at the Windsor.

Mr. Clough will spend the winter with her mother in Kentucky and her husband will divide his time between here and British Columbia, where he has mining interests.

"At the Lewis and Clark Exposition at Portland Mrs. Clough was invited as a special guest on "Clark Day," and last year at St. Louis she was on the reception committee on "Geo. Rogers Clark Day."

"Mr. Clough was born in Ontario and served as an artillery officer at Kingston. He is from a Scotch military family, the members of which had served their country on both sea and land. John Clough, of Truim, near Glasgow, fought at Preston Pans and Culodun Moor. There is an heirloom in Mr. Clough's family consisting of a lock of Bonnie Prince Charlie's hair, which was for a time the dearest treasure of the historic Flora MacDonald and which she afterwards gave to one of Mr. Clough's ancestors and which has ever since been a distinguished heirloom. He is wearing this royal lock pinned in a gold socket bearing the family arms and crest, which he will present to his bride."

COMPLAINTS CAUSED

BY HABITS OF LIVING—EVERY CITY VISITED BY CHARAC-TERISTIC AFFLICTION, SAYS PAYNE.

Of the thousands of people who have called on Payne and his assistants in this city, it is said that a majority was suffering with stomach troubles in different forms.

Payne explained that in each city visited, some particular ailment is prevalent. In some parts of the country many are afflicted with rheumatism, while in other places, catarrh and liver and kidney disorders cause most of the suffering. But in Paducah it is said that it is stomach trouble that claims many victims.

The afflictions that are common to different parts of the country Payne explained, are due to climatic conditions and the people's habits of living.

During Payne's visit in this city there were hundreds of callers who told about what they had suffered because of stomach trouble.

Of the stories told by those who called yesterday the statement made by John Meyer will give an idea of the work that the Payne's remedies are accomplishing:

"I have been suffering for some time with stomach trouble, which gradually grew worse. I felt weak and nervous and I had a coated tongue and bad taste in my mouth most of the time. I frequently woke up in the morning after tossing most of the night feeling more tired than when I went to bed. A few days ago I decided to try the Payne remedies and I bought some of the New Discovery. My improvement began almost with the first dose and now I feel better than I have for years.

Another interesting story was told by Henry Korb, who said: "For a number of years I had been troubled with rheumatism and my joints were swollen and painful. I had tried many remedies and received little benefit. Then I bought some of the Payne preparations and almost as soon as I began to use the medicine
I was relieved. Within two weeks the swelling was gone and the pain had left me and I feel better than I had for a long while."

Payne's remedies can be obtained at all hours at Smith & Nagel's, 4th and Broadway.

WILL REBUILD

Langstaff to Start Work at Once—
Machinery Has Been Ordered.

The Langstaff-Orme Manufacturing company has decided to rebuild its sawmill as soon as possible and the preliminary work has already begun. Mr. Linneaus Orme has returned from St. Louis where he ordered the machinery. The reconstruction will probably require two months, if not longer and in the meantime the company will have its sawing done at another local mill. The fire fortunately found it with a good supply of building material on hand, which will make it easier to run the other departments without the sawmill, especially as the rush is over for the year and there will be comparatively little activity in building circles until spring.

MANY HUNTERS

WERE OUT TODAY, THE OPEN
QUAIL SEASON BEGINNING.

The Sport Will Last Forty-Five Days
—Until January 1st—Great Sport Being Had.

The "open" season for hunting quail in Kentucky began today, and many sportsmen are making an invasion on the fields in search of the quaint little bird. Today the report of the shotgun was heard from many stubblefields and thickets.

The Kentucky statutes throw many protections about the quail, fixing a heavy penalty for persons killing them out of season. A heavy fine is also provided for persons who ship them outside the state in order that hunting them may not degenerate into a commercial pursuit.

Another provision that has helped in the preservation of the birds is that rabbits must not be killed during the closed season. Heretofore many hunters under pretext of hunting rabbits have killed quail during the closed season. Under a new law game wardens may be appointed in each county to see that the statutes are not violated.

Reports from the western and southeastern portions of the state indicate that quail are more plentiful than ever before, and friends of hunters may be prepared to meet with marvelous yields for the next six weeks.
The season closes December 31.

BUTCHERS COMPLAIN

Of the Coldness of the Market House
—No Heat There.

The butchers at the market house are complaining because the city has taken no steps to connect the steam heat. Everything is ready to put in radiators and supply the building with heat, and the butchers are willing and anxious to pay for the heat if they can get it. Thus far, however, nothing has ever been done to heat the building further than running the pipes from the heating mains to the building, and leaving them ready to connect.

The building is very cold to both butchers and those who have to visit the market every morning. To make it worse the doors on the south end have to be kept partly open, as one is so swelled that when shut it sticks and can be opened only with great effort. Keeping it open leaves the interior of the market swept constantly by a cold draught.

Terrific Race With Death.
"Death was fast approaching," writes Ralph F. Fernandez, of Tampa, Fla., describing his fearful race with death, "as a result of liver trouble and heart disease, which had robbed me of sleep and of all interest in life. I had tried many different doctors and several medicines, but got no benefit, until I began to use Electric Bitters. So wonderful was their effect that in three days I felt like a new man, and today I am cured of all my troubles." Guaranteed at W. B. McPherson's drug store; price 50c.

CHARITY CONFERENCE.

Will Be Held for the State at Owensboro, Ky., This Month.

It has been announced in Paducah that the third annual meeting of the Kentucky state conference of Charities and Correction will be held in Owensboro November 22 and 23.

Arrangements are already being made in the Owensboro churches for the entertainment of the delegates to the conference. The meeting will be held in one of the churches.

UNUSUAL CASE

IS PUZZLING THE ELECTION
COMMISSIONERS AT LEX-INGTON.

A Blundering Official Has the Ballots
Printed Wrong, It Seems.

Lexington, Ky., Nov. 15.—The board of election commissioners for Fayette county suspended their work of counting the votes cast last week on account of a peculiar question arising which they could not decide.
Through an error the name of Mrs.
Vannie G. Falconer, who was elected as the Democratic candidate for county superintendent of schools, was also placed on the city ballots when it should only have been placed on the county ballots. In consequence all the straight Democratic votes cast in the city had no legal voice concerning her office.

In the discussion before the commissioners County Attorney W. P. Kimball held that the accidental vote for Mrs. Falconer in the city should be treated as a clerical error and ignored.
Commonwealth's Attorney John R. Allen argued that the commissioner's duties were purely ministerial and they had no option but to count the ballots for Mrs. Falconer.

R. C. Stoll, Republican member of the commission, took Col. Allen's side of the controversy and V. C.
Hunter, a Democratic member, was inclined to agree with him. Sheriff J. T. Wilkerson, the third member of the commission, was absent on account of illness.

It was finally decided to submit the question to Circuit Judge Watts Parker by framing an agreed suit for Mrs. Falconer against her Republican opponent, Mr. Warren, and ask an immediate ruling.

Mrs. Falconer had a safe majority in the county, so that the city vote whether counted or not makes no practical difference.

KENTUCKY COURT.

Is Reversed By Decision of the Supreme Court.

Washington, Nov. 15.—The supreme court of the United States has reversed the decision of the Kentucky court of appeals in the case of the Union Refrigerator Transit company vs. the commonwealth of Kentucky, holding that the cars owned by the company and used in other states cannot be taxed in that state, even though it be a Kentucky corporation.
The opinion of the court was delivered by Justice Brown.

This case grew out of an effort on the part of the authorities of Jefferson county, Kentucky, to enforce the tax law of the state against the transit company. That company is a Kentucky corporation, having its home office in Jefferson county, while its main place of business is in St.
Louis, Mo. The company owns 2,000 refrigerator cars, and an effort was made to tax them at the rate of $200 each.

Saved By Dynamite.

Sometimes, a flaming city is saved by dynamiting a space that the fire can't cross. Sometimes a cough hangs on so long you feel as if nothing but dynamiting would cure it.
Z. T. Gray, of Calhoun, Ga., writes:
"My wife had a very aggravated cough, which kept her awake nights.
Two physicians could not help her;
so she took Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption, Coughs and Colds, which eased her cough, gave her sleep and finally cured her."
Strictly scientific cure for bronchitis and grippe. At W. B. McPherson's

GENERAL CONFERENCE.

Which Meets at Birmingham, Ala., to Be Invited to Kentucky.

An invitation will be extended to the general conference of the Methodist Episcopal church, south, which meets in Birmingham, Ala., in May,
to hold its next meeting in Louisville. The invitation will be offered by the delegates from Kentucky to the conference, and it is confidently believed that Louisville will be the successful bidder for the entertainment of this organization. The meetings of the general conference are held quadrennially and the next meeting, therefore, will be held in 1910.
As this body is the lawmaking body of the Southern Methodist church, its meetings are always a matter of much importance. The general conference is not allowed to take action on the meeting places of the body, but a special committee is always named to select such places.

A Creeping Death.

Blood poison creeps up towards the heart, causing death. J. E.
Stearns, Belle Plaine, Minn., writes that a friend dreadfully injured his hand, which swelled up like blood poisoning. Bucklen's Arnica Salve drew out the poison, healed the wound and saved his life. Best in the world for burns and sores. 25c at W. B. McPherson's drug store.

RULERS OF THE WORLD.

Meat Eating Nations Are the Leaders in Every Branch of Human Achievement.

The ruling nations of the world are meat eaters and history records that they always have been.

Vegetarians and food-cranks may explain this in any way they choose, but the facts remain that the Americans, English, French, Russians and Germans are meat-eating nations, and they are also the most energetic and most progressive.

The principal food of the heroic Boer soldier, known as Biltong, is a sort of dried beef, affording a great deal of nourishment in a highly concentrated form.

The weak races of people are the rice-eating Chinese, Hindoos, and Siamese, regarded since the dawn of history as non-progressive, superstitious and inferior physically and mentally to the meat-eating nations who dominate them.

The structure of the teeth plainly indicates that human beings should subsist upon a variety of food, meat, fruit and grains, and it is unhygienic to confine one's diet to any one of these classes to the exclusion of another.

Meat is the most concentrated and most easily digested of foods, but our manner of living is often so unnatural that the digestive organs refuse to properly digest meat, eggs and similar nutritious and wholesome food, but it is not because such food is unwholesome, but the real reason is that the stomach lacks, from disease or weakness, some necessary digestive element; hence arising indigestion and, later on, chronic dyspepsia.

Nervous people should eat plenty of meat, convalescents should make meat the principal food, hard-working people have to do so, and brain-workers and office men should eat not so much meat, but at least once a day, and to insure its perfect digestion one or two of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets should be taken after each meal, because they supply the peptones, diastase and fruit acids, lacking in every case of stomach trouble.

Nervous dyspepsia, catarrh of stomach, gastritis, sour stomach, gas and acidity are only different names for indigestion, the failure to digest wholesome food, and the use of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets cures them all because, by affording perfect digestion, the stomach has a chance to rest and recover its natural tone and vigor.

Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets is the real household medicine; it is as safe and pleasant for the stomach as the baby as it is for the imperfect digestion of its grand sire.

They are not a cathartic, but a digestive, and no pill habit can ever follow their use; the only habit Stuart's Tablets induce is the habit of good digestion and consequently good health.

For this season's selling we have assembled the grandest line of Furniture ever shown in Paducah and equal to any shown in the large cities. These goods are the product of our own factory and other prominent makers of high-grade Furniture. We show everything from the cheap chairs to the most elaborated and massive pieces. Hundreds of new and novel odd pieces are here. Nothing is lacking to fit out the home or office, and the price can be suited to any purse, and the dollars will be left in that purse over what would have to be spent if you bought elsewhere. LOUISVILLE PLUMS

A NUMBER WILL SOON BEGIN TO FALL—NAMES OF THE FORTUNATE.

Many of the Jobs Will Be Merely Re-appointed It Is Now Reported.

Louisville, Ky. Nov. 15.—Mayor-elect Paul Barth, has returned from French Lick Springs, and it is thought, will soon announce some of his executive officers. It is conceded that Colonel Harry H. Brennan will continue chairman of the board of public safety. It is announced that Owen Tyler will most likely be elected president of the board of aldermen, to succeed Mr. Barth. His opponent for the presidency of the board is Charles F. Taylor, a lawyer. Samuel S. Blutz will be elected president of the council.

It is the general understanding that Mayor-elect Barth will make few changes among the subordinate officers and that Chief Gunther, of the police department, and Fire Chief Elmore Tyson will hold their places. Louis Summers was elected city assessor at the meeting of the general council. He will retain the present force in the office. It is expected that Mayor-elect Barth will re-appoint Thomas P. O'Leary private secretary. Mr. Craig has served for four years under Mayor Grainger.

50 NEW BARGES

Have Been Purchased By the West Kentucky Coal Co.

The West Kentucky Coal company has purchased a fleet of 50 coal barges and flats, to be used in transporting coal from the Paducah mines to St. Louis for the St. Louis Gas company. The steamer Harvester is expected in Pittsburg Friday to tow the new craft to Paducah.

OFFICERS ELECTED

BY THE PADUCAH CARNIVAL ASSOCIATION LAST EVENING.

Preparations to Begin at Once For the Spring Carnival—Details Unsettled.

The Paducah Carnival Association expects everything to be ready for its annual carnival in the spring, by the first of the year or soon thereafter. Last night the association held a meeting and elected the following officers:

L. A. Lagomarsino, president.
A. W. Greif, vice-president.
Rudney C. Davis, secretary and treasurer.
G. R. Davis, chairman L. A. Lagomarsino, J. J. Read, R. C. Davis and Charles Wolfe, directors.
The association already has numerous communications from carnival promoters who desire to furnish attractions, but it is likely no contract will be made until it is learned what is the newest and best. One feature that may be provided is the fire-fighting attraction which was at Coney Island all the summer. Some of the carnival directors are in favor of securing the attractions separately, instead of having them furnished in a lump by a company.

It is understood that the German Village will be eliminated next year and something substituted similar to the American Inn at the Traveling Men's recent carnival.

THE EAGLES

Have Decided to Lease the Y. M. C. A. Building at Sixth and Broadway.

Paducah Acile of Eagles has decided to lease the building at Sixth and Broadway known as the Y. M. C. A. building, and the trustees have been instructed to close a lease with Mr. W. H. Rieker, the owner. An effort will also be made to lease the gymnasium building in the rear, which is the property of the Y. M. C. A. The furnishings of this main building, which belong to the Y. M. C. A., will be bought if a deal can be made with the assignee.

Tonight at the regular meeting of the Eagles, the matter of giving a minstrel by local talent will be discussed and possibly decided.

PAINTERS IMMUNE

To a Great Extent From Severe Cough.

Painters do not suffer much from cold in the head because they have a simple remedy which keeps the head clear and dispels all pain.

This is "shellac," which is spread on woodwork before varnish is applied. Shellac contains alcohol and other liquids which go right through the head when snuffed up through the nostrils. When painters get a cold they frequently go to the shellac can and "take a whiff," keeping their head clear and free from pain.

WAITING NOW ON COMPANY'S ANSWER

Sealed Verdict Not to be Opened Until Then.

Nine Jurors Signed It—The Commonwealth Agrees to Accept the Verdict.

AN APPEAL EITHER WAY

Tomorrow Attorneys Wheeler, Hughes & Berry expect to hear from Chief Counsel Martindale, of Indianapolis, regarding the sealed verdict brought in by the jurymen in the rebating case against the Interstate Life Insurance company, of Indiana, but they have no idea what his decision will be.

The verdict was signed by nine of the jurymen, the other three refusing to concur. It was not reached for many hours and for awhile it looked as if the jury was hung and would have to be discharged. The case was bitterly fought by the commonwealth and the defense.

As the verdict stands, although he does not have any knowledge of its contents, for the verdict is sealed in an envelope, Commonwealth's Attorney John G. Lovett has agreed to accept it but the local attorneys for the insurance company did not have the authority to agree on accepting it and have laid the matter before the company's chief counsel, Mr. Martindale, and he should give an answer in a short time. If he declines to accept the verdict the case will have to be tried over in the local court for the verdict is not binding on either side unless both the commonwealth and defense agree to it. If the insurance company accepts the verdict and the case goes against it an appeal will be taken, likewise the commonwealth.

This is a test case in Kentucky and if the company loses it means the loss of an enormous sum of money in fines for there are about 625 such cases against it in Kentucky.

The defense tried to show that it did not know that its agent, Mike Caldwell, of this city, was rebating, therefore it was not responsible. Caldwell claims that he was acting under instructions of the state agent.

As the court enjoined the jurymen from giving out the verdict it will probably not be known until the insurance company gives its answer, for if a member of the jury should let the secret out he would be subject to a fine and imprisonment for contempt of court.

CONGESTION OF LUNGS.

Attacks Mr. John Porteous, the Tallest Man in the State.

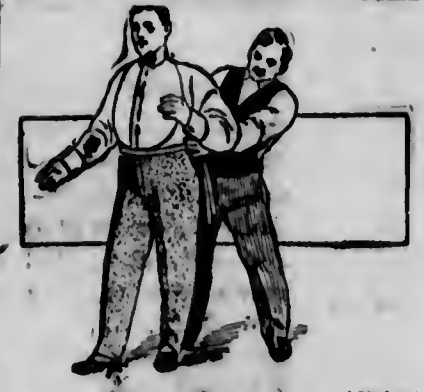

Mr. John Porteous, the well-known florist, and doubtless the tallest man in the state of Kentucky, being over seven feet high, is very ill at his home on West Trimble street from congestion of the lungs. He became ill Monday, and had several severe hemorrhages Monday, but only two yesterday.

Today he appears to be better, and his chances for recovery are believed to be good. Mr. Porteous is one of the most popular young men in the city, and is a prominent member of both Elks and Red Men.

HAD FINE HUNT

Mr. Theo Luttrell Killed Two Deer in Missouri.

Theodore Luttrell, of the county, returned yesterday from Missouri, where he joined a hunting party last week and had several days good sport. He killed two deer, a number of wild turkeys and geese, and all the squirrels and smaller game the party could use. He was the only member of the party from McCracken county.

Tribute to Prof. Gilbert.

The Mayfield Monitor of Tuesday says: "The people of Mayfield have never had the pleasure of enjoying such a musical treat as was afforded them in last night's organ recital at the Methodist church. The new organ had just been installed and was formally opened and dedicated by Prof.

Harry Gilbert, an eminent organist from Paducah. The seating capacity of the church was thoroughly tested and the deep appreciation of the audience was evidenced by the wonderful and unusual silence during the rendition of the various numbers. Prof. Gilbert's playing was remarkable for one who seems to be so young in years. Indeed he has developed into a genius, many removed from talent, which can be acquired by application and study. The melody which he produced from his artistic touch and superior knowledge of the instrument can easily be compared with that degree of excellence brought about by the composers themselves whose work illustrates, in fine, the feelings which inspired such composition. Prof. Gilbert rendered several numbers but the last one on his program, the "Intermezzo," from MacCagn's "Cavalleria Rusticana," was superb and thoroughly enjoyed by the audience."

Miller, of Owensboro, one child, Joe Howard McLean, Jr., and three brothers, James Miller, of Ashland, Ala., and Robert and John Miller, of Owensboro.

Narrow Escape for Pupils.

Cynthiana, Ky., Nov. 15.—Fire broke out in the public school while four hundred children were at class. Through the coolness of Prof. Leonard and seven of the grades were marched out in order. One hundred pupils in the two infant grades became excited and rushed down the steps pell-mell several of them being slightly injured. Miss Hesse Gault, a teacher in grade C, seeing that she had lost control of her pupils, locked the door and ordered the children to their desks. She then ordered them to go through the fire drill and marched them out of the building.

Pie Hunters at Henderson.

Henderson, Ky., Nov. 15.—Municipal pie hunters are making the path to Henderson's twelve convalescent quite warm. BURNING BARN

Causes Consternation in a Tennessee Meeting House.

Humboldt, Tenn., Nov. 15.—The fire alarm blew at an exceedingly unfortunate time Sunday night, the cause of which was the burning of a barn on Fort Hill owned by Mrs. T. A. Bonds.

Possibly the largest crowd that has gathered in years to hear a preacher in Humboldt had convened to listen to Rev. W. P. Price, the eloquent young divine from Mississippi, who is conducting a protracted meeting, the crowd numbering about 600. The speaker's subject was "Hell: How to Escape It." He was just reaching the climax of one of the most powerful and convincing sermons ever listened to here, and it seemed as if a pin-drop could have been heard at any point in the great audience, so completely did he have their attention, when the "wild cat" whistle blew and the crowd became confused. No one was hurt, however, but about one-third of the people left before his proposition could be made to the unsaved by the preacher.

RUSSIA APPEALS TO THE PEASANTS

To Aid Government Promising
Amelioration of Conditions.

Discontent Largely Contributed to Czar's Approval of a Recent Ukase.

THE FEAR OF AGRARIANISM

St. Petersburg, Nov. 15.—Private and reliable reports from Warsaw today say that all parties there are joining in the national movement, following the tactics of Finland for complete strike. So long as their attitude of passive resistance continues the issue will be one of endurance. The danger is that the Poles may provoke an active measure which would mean nothing short of a civil war. It would be extremely difficult under the present circumstances to attempt to withdraw any troops from European Russia. The number of troops in Poland, however, is sufficient to cope with the situation. With the Polish "quadrilateral," Novogorodsk, Warsaw and Evangorod on each side of the Vistula and first on the Bug, there are 600,000 troops.

The government has decided to appeal to the peasants with the workmen of cities completely estranged from the government and the liberals refusing to aid the authorities there is nothing left but to turn to the peasants and the emperor has approved a ukase informing them that measures for the amelioration of their condition will receive immediate consideration. The discontent of peasants and the danger of the spread of the Agrarian movement largely contributed to the government's decision.

RESEMBLED A BULL DOG.

And Because of His Ugliness Was Arrested for Murder.

Athens, Nov. 15.—Three bakers were murdered here the other day, the first being the motive of the crime. From the first suspicion fell on a man who was formerly employed by one of the bakers, and who was so ugly in appearance that from his earliest years he had been known by the sobriquet of "Bulldog." The man, in fact, had never known his real name.

Finding that he was suspected of having committed the crime, "Bulldog" took flight and traveled through Greece, the police following him from one place to another. He was always denounced by his ugly face. Finally he was arrested and brought back to Athens. He made a statement, and absolute proofs of his innocence accumulated to a great extent. Asked why he had escaped, he replied:

"I am so ugly that everybody considered that I ought to be the murderer."

The idea of "Bulldog's" guilt has taken so great a hold on the people that, in spite of the lack of proofs connecting him with the crime, he is still kept in prison.

FOUND BAYONET

That Was Made in 1441—Picked Up in Scrap Heap.

Riverhead, L. I., Nov. 15.—Oliver A. Terry, a machinist here, has found in an old heap of scrap iron at his place a bayonet that he believes was made in England in 1441, as those figures are rather crudely impressed upon the implement.

Mr. Terry is confident that the weapon was made by hand. It is not of the material from which things are made nowadays. It is probable that the bayonet was brought across from England during the war of 1812.

THE POPE

Will Create Only Four Cardinals at Next Consistory.

Rome, Nov. 15.—Owing to the difficulty of completing the list of new cardinals without wounding the susceptibilities of the Italian element at the Vatican, which has brought pressure to bear upon Pope Pius for an adequate representation of Italians among the cardinals to be created at the next consistory, his holiness said that it was his intention to create only four.

Those who will be elevated will be Mgr. Cagiano de Azevedo, major domo of the Vatican; Archbishop Cavalcanti de Albuquerque, of Rio de Janeiro; Archbishop Samana, of Blau, Hungary; and Archbishop Spilola, of Seville. In consequence, Mgr. Hazelti will be appointed major domo, but will retain the functions of the master of the pontifical chamber, fusing the two offices.

HYDE ON STAND

BELIEVE

He Would Be Head of the Equitable —Salary $100,000 at One Time.

New York, Nov. 15.—James Hazen Hyde was a witness before the insurance investigation and testified that he had been brought up to understand that some day he would succeed his father as head of the Equitable.

In 1895 he became second vice president but declined any compensation. Two years later he accepted a salary of thirty thousand dollars and this was increased to seventy-five thousand later to one hundred thousand.

He said in both cases the increases were made without any suggestion from him.

Hyde testified to the contribution of fifty thousand dollars to the Republican campaign fund last year, but was hazy about some other expenditures, saying he was not familiar with all the financial transactions.

SIX HUSBANDS.

Woman Arrested who was a Veritable Female Hech, It Seems.

St. Paul, Nov. 15.—The trial of a woman, whose matrimonial career, to say the least, has been dramatic, has just ended at Lyck, in Prussia. The woman married a man named Zelig when she was eighteen years of age. After three years of married life Zelig died very suddenly. His wife contracted a second marriage, and the husband died with equal suddenness. Her third husband blew his brains out, but it was alleged that the revolver had been placed in his hand after death.

The woman, left a widow for a third time, married a little. She spent some time in Paris, and had three other husbands. These three marriages terminated unhappily for the husbands. They either died or disappeared. The body of the first husband was exhumed and although it had been interred a long time, there was sufficient strychnine found in it to poison two men.

Ninety witnesses were heard at the trial. They included one man who lived with the woman in Paris. The jury disagreed.

MADRID UNIVERSITIES.

May Have To Close on Account of Student Riots.

Madrid, Nov. 15.—Student riots here are assuming serious dimensions. The council of the university has decided to close the institution unless the disorder is immediately stopped. The disorders are the outgrowth of a decision of the faculty of the university of Madrid expelling a number of students for insubordination. The entire student membership made common cause with those who were expelled, and appealed to the universities throughout Spain, causing a general strike of students and the consequent disorders.

Finds Bones of Explorer.

Baraboo, Wis., Nov. 15.—While removing a stump in the rear of his shop at Sauk City, J. H. Weller unearthed the skeleton of a man in a good state of preservation. On the bone of an arm was found a metal bracelet of Spanish or French manufacture. The skeleton is believed to be that of a French explorer who visited this section as early as 1673.

MORE BALLOT BOXES REPORTED MISSING

Much Crookedness is Being Uncovered in New York.

Ballots Taken in Many Precincts and the Records Are Gone Or Badly Doctored.

BOTH SIDES ARE VERY BUSY

New York, Nov. 15.—The discovery was made today that more ballot boxes from Tammany districts are missing. Expert accountants are unearthing a vast amount of discrepancies in the tally sheets, the registry books of Manhattan and the Bronx. The 12 highly capable mathematicians employed by the municipal government are getting substantial results from their careful search of the election documents.

All of the errors so far discovered by the expert accountants are favorable to Mr. Hearst.

The check of the returns and the records will be used as a basis for the municipal league law committee for their plan of action. Where criminal intent to falsify has been found the result of the investigation will be turned over to the attorney general and Superintendent Morgan and the election inspectors will be prosecuted. This check and reports of the expert accountants will also be used to bring the actions in the civil courts for recounts in the various districts.

The attorneys for the municipal league stated today they could not at this time make public the amazing results that the investigation had brought out so far. They stated, however, that the guilty persons, wherever found, would be punished to the full extent of the law.

An example of what the expert accountants are finding was made public. In one election district of an assembly district the returns showed 1,151 votes for Kennealy, Socialist labor candidate, and none for Hearst. Yet in the same assembly district the records show that the total vote for Kennealy was less than 90. Another example of the same kind showed that in one election district the inspectors certified to 78 votes for Kennealy and the whole assembly district in which this election district was located showed that Kennealy received only 10 votes in all. In still another election district the records show that 206 ballots were voted and that there were 200 blank ballots, yet the returns gave McClellan 181 votes.

Never after an election has there been such activity at the office of the superintendent of elections. Mr. Morgan has been forced to retain a large number of deputies to make arrests, serve subpoenas and gather evidence, so as to assist Attorney General Mayer in the prosecution of the election frauds.

The attorney general, District Attorney Jerome, Superintendent Morgan and all the Hearst attorneys are working in harmony in the gathering of evidence and preparation of the prosecutions. It is expected that the number of indictments that will be asked for from the grand jury will be the largest that have ever been procured for illegal election acts.

Attorney General Mayer announced today that the cases and reports of illegal and crooked acts had been reported to both his and Superintendent Morgan's office in such number that he had appointed Jay S. Jones, of Brooklyn, and James S. Lehman, of Manhattan as special deputies, to the attorney general to assist the regular staff in the investigation and prosecution of the election cases reported.

TRAIN STALLED BY MINNOWS.

Tiny Fish Clog Pipe Leading from Water Tank at Watertown, S. D., and Render Locomotive Useless.

Watertown, S. D., Nov. 15.—A train on the Chicago and Northwestern railway was stalled here by water-clogged pipe minnows, which clogged the pipe leading from the water tank to the boiler of the locomotive. After half an hour's delay a puff and a half of these tiny creatures were taken from the pipe and the locomotive was sent to the company's shops at Winona, Minn., to have the rest of the fish removed.

A HOSTILE FLEET AT NEW YORK CITY

Could Easily Destroy the Metropolis of America.

Prince Louis Says Gotham Could Not
Last Five Minutes Under Bombardment.

AFFORDS A VERY FINE TARGET

Chicago, Nov. 15.—A special from New York to the Inter Ocean says: New York would not last five minutes under the fire of a hostile fleet, according to Admiral Prince Louis of Battenberg, who is the guest of the city here.

The prince surprised a group of interviewers tonight by the answer he gave to the usual stereotyped question: "What do you think of New York and what has impressed you most here?"

"What impresses me most is New York's liability of being destroyed if it is ever besieged by a hostile fleet," was the prince's reply. "The tall buildings would make magnificent targets. Any war would be disastrous to New York; yes, more disastrous to New York than to any other city in the world. This is impressed upon me by the tremendous amount of traffic that one sees coming up the harbor."

"What New York wants above all things is peace. The two combined fleets in New York harbor could, I think, reduce the city to atoms in the time it takes my cook to fry an omelet."

"I want to say that I am very much impressed with the American fleet. Its appearance, the smartness of its officers and the discipline of the men all give evidence that the vessels are in the highest state of efficiency."

"I am a brother-in-law of Emperor Nicholas, and I am also a rear admiral in the British navy. You are therefore getting on thin ice—in fact, on no ice at all—and I think I shall not attempt to skate."

Prince Louis then expressed his unqualified admiration of American women, and declared that it was easy to see why District Attorney Jerome succeeded, after meeting them. He also expressed a favorable opinion of sports in the navy.

There were three scheduled events on Prince Louis' program today, the first being a luncheon at Governor's Island with Brig. Gen. Grant. This was an elaborate affair, and a distinguished company met the prince, the officers of his staff, the commanding officers of his squadron, and his highness, Prince Alexander, a midshipman on the Deake and a nephew of the admiral.

The prince made the trip to the island on the army quartermaster's tug and was received at the landing with military honors.

To Marry Alfonso's Sister.

Madrid, Nov. 15.—Prince Ferdinand Maria of Bavaria, who is to marry, it is believed, the sister of Alfonso XIII, the Infanta Dona Maria Theresa de Bourbon, is the eldest son of the Spanish Maria de la Paz and of Prince Louis Ferdinand of Bavaria. The Infanta was born in Madrid on November 12, 1882, and the young Prince Ferdinand of Bavaria was also born at the Madrid palace on May 10, 1884, where his mother happened to be staying as the guest of the late King Alfonso XII, her brother, and of Queen Maria Christina. Prince Ferdinand visited Madrid last year in October, just about the time when the late princess of Austria heiress presumptive to the throne of Spain, and elder sister of the Infanta, became seriously ill and died. The marriage of the Bavarian prince with Dona Maria had already been hinted of in the newspapers, but there has been little court gossip regarding it for a long time.

NEW MEDICAL RIDDLE.

Bricklayer at Budapest Does Wonderful Anatomical Stunts.

Budapest, Nov. 15.—At the "Poly-clinic" medical authorities assembled to examine a man of thirty, a well-built bricklayer by the way, who does the most "impossible" anatomical stunts. Anton is able to exercise every single muscle in the most intense fashion, and is complete master of all his physical functions, performing or stopping them at will. For instance he can stop his heart beat and his pulse at a moment's notice, and is able to lift his digestive organs and the contents of his stomach five or six inches. Sandow was able to give the muscles of his arm full play. Anton does similar stunts with the muscles of his neck, his back, etc. When he sets his muscles to play leap-frog his skin and other parts of the body begin to move. Furthermore, he is able to double the size of his eyeballs.

MILAN EXPOSITION

WILL BE QUITE A BIG AFFAIR,
THOUGH NOT INTERNA-TIONAL.

It Will Open in Early Spring and Is Arousing Much Interest.

Rome, Nov. 15.—The exhibition which is to be opened in the city of Milan early in the spring of next year will not be wholly international. That is to say, a few of its groups and one of its sections are to be reserved for the display of Italian arts and industries. This partial reservation is not only desirable, as it will afford a means of throwing into relief the marvelous development of industrial Italy, but also on account of the limited space available. For the city of Milan, magnificent though it be in its buildings and perspectives, offered only two sites on which the exhibition could be held—a portion of the park which is situated at the Castello, once a fortified palace and now a municipal museum, and the parade ground not far away and corresponding somewhat to the Champs de Mars in Paris. Together these two sites are nearly 200 acres in extent, of which certainly 50 acres will be covered by buildings of elaborate design and of beautiful though very temporary finish; these buildings are now in an advanced stage of progress.

The project of the Milan exhibition is by no means a new one. It was to have been held three years ago, with the object of celebrating the completion of the Simplon tunnel but with the delay in finishing that monumental work came the postponement of the exhibition. The tunnel will now be opened shortly and the event will be commemorated by the Milan festival of art and industry, at which foreign nations have been invited to assist, and many of these have accepted the invitation.

IRRIGATION REPORT.

Problem of Pumping Water Where Streams Are Unavailable.

Washington, Nov. 15.—The annual report for 1904 of the irrigation and drainage investigations of the United States department of agriculture says a leading line of work during the year was a study of the possibilities of pumping water for irrigation where a supply from streams is not available or is hard to get. The report covers the Santa Clara valley in California, the New Mexico experiment station, the state of Texas, the rice districts of Louisiana and the states of Colorado, Nebraska and Kansas.

The drainage investigations include experiments in draining seeped and alkali lands in the arid regions, the drainage of bottom lands in the Missouri valley, the protection of bottom lands along the Mississippi, Ohio, Illinois and Wabash rivers from overflow and the drainage of farm lands.

Gives $100,000 for Unemployed.

London, Nov. 15.—Queen Alexandra has contributed $100,000 and has initiated a movement for the relief of the unemployed in England by issuing an appeal through Earl de Grey, treasurer of the queen's household. Her majesty says: "I appeal to the people of the empire, men and women, to assist me in alleviating the suffering of the poor, starving and unemployed during the winter. For this purpose I head the list with 2,000 pounds. All contributions should be sent to Earl de Grey."

A REORGANIZATION OF T. C. RAILROAD

Is Expected in a Very Short Time.

The Illinois Central and Southern to Name Several New Officials
For Road.

NO DEFINITE ANNOUNCEMENT

Washington, Nov. 15.—Since the passing of the Tennessee Central railroad into the hands of the Southern railway and the Illinois Central the former to operate the eastern division and the latter the western, speculation as to the future order of business under the respective managements has been rife, the focus of interest being in the personnel of the operating forces should the dominating systems make material changes.

As is already expected, if not known, the chief traffic and operating officers of the old Tennessee Central organization will be abolished as these departments will come under the jurisdiction of officials in the employ of the Southern and the Illinois Central, respectively. Whether or not officials thus effected will be retained in the service of the new operating companies in other capacities is not known but it is likely that several of the higher officials will be offered duties in the reorganization.

It is understood that General Manager G. B. Clark has been offered a position with the Frisco system, the offer coming from B. F. Yoakum. In this connection it is said that Mr. Clark make take several of his old Tennessee Central associates with him.

It was stated today at the general offices of the Southern railway that the eastern division of the Tennessee Central, from Nashville to Harrison, will in the future be known as the Nashville division. This division will have a superintendent with headquarters at Nashville. The official for this place has not been named, but his appointment is only a matter of three or four days. This superintendent will be the highest titled operating officer of the Nashville division. It is stated also at the Southern's headquarters that no changes are contemplated effecting the place now occupied by trainmasters, dispatchers, conductors, engineers and other employees subordinate to the office of superintendent, and that so far as employees under this head are concerned they may remain in the service.

The Illinois Central, it is understood, will name a superintendent for the western divisions whose headquarters will be in Nashville. An other inspection of the eastern division of the Tennessee Central will be made in a few days by Southern railway officials. Neither President Spooner nor any of the vice-presidents, however, will be in the party.

BOTH SIDES

Are Issuing Statements About German Strikes.

Berlin, Nov. 15.—In order to support the lending electrical firms in the settlement of their difficulties with their employees, the subjects under discussion are being printed in reports prepared by both sides. The side of the employers, which is just from the hands of the printer, makes the claim that a system has been elaborated by the members of the trade unions for successively extorting a rise of wages for different categories of workmen by the menace of a general strike.

The situation, they claim, has been rendered intolerable, and, in fact, when the screwmakers and packers refused to accept the employers' terms it was impossible to carry on the other departments of the works. The men employed in the screwmaking department had an average wage of 62.3 pfennigs an hour; the women in the same department an average wage of 35.1. They demanded a general raise of 15 per cent. The employees, after conferring with the workmen's committee, offered a general raise of from 5 to 6 per cent for piece work, so arranged as to favor the cheaper kinds of work. Although the leaders of the men recommended the acceptance of this offer, it was rejected, and on the following day the strike began.

The most fright thing in life is a cold shoulder.

The Reason

In the ordinary heater the draft enters the front, passes up through the fire and out the flue at the top. In this way only about 60 per cent of the burnable properties of your fuel are consumed, the rest passes up the flue unburned in the form of gases and smoke. In the

the Hot Blast Down-Draft enters from the top, circulates throughout and over the fire and produces perfect combustion, which consumes all of the burnable elements in your fuel; thus the Wilson will give you 40 per cent more heat with a given amount of soft coal than any other heater, or in other words, your fuel bill will be reduced 40 per cent.

Is this worth considering?

HANK BROS.,

FIRST AUTOMOBILE HAD TO BE CAGED

It Was Such a Nuisance It Had To Be Suppressed By Law.

Sherman, Tex., Nov. 15.—Rev. J. W. Carhart, who in 1870 constructed and operated the first horseless carriage, was a resident of Sherman for many years. He now lives at Hot Springs, Ark. He was living at Itasca, Wis., at the time he built the pioneer automobile.

It was a four-wheeled concern, resembling an old-fashioned buckboard, and had a vertical steam engine attached to the rear axle. Of necessity it was noisy, and it is said to have been very erratic, the funnel of the engine showering sparks in profusion along its pathway. It was much worse than the modern automobile when it came to frightening horses and many runaways were caused by it on the public streets and highways of Racine and vicinity. The climax was reached one day when the machine caused a valuable race horse to run away and dash itself to death. The "go-devil," as it was called even at that date, was banished from the public thoroughfares by law.

Rev. Carhart came to Texas in 1876. He was coadjutor of the bishop of the northern branch of the Methodist Episcopal church, having Texas within the scope of his episcopal jurisdiction, and located at Sherman. Gathering about him all the communicants of that church in Sherman and vicinity, Rev. Carhart organized a local society and in 1878 completed and dedicated a handsome brick edifice here, known as St. Paul's M. E. church. The edifice still stands, but years ago it passed into the hands of the Congregationalists.

Rev. Carhart was always full of energy and potent with new ideas. The restraint of the ministry did not deter him from promoting the establishment of the town of Clarendon, which is now a place of considerable size and importance, situated in the Panhandle of Texas. A brother and several other members of his family still live there. His brother is the present mayor of Clarendon. During the several years that Rev. Carhart lived in Texas he was an earnest temperance advocate and worker. There was a clause in every deed to lots which he sold in the town of Clarendon perpetually prohibiting the sale of intoxicating liquor upon the premises. For a time he was the editor of a newspaper here, devoted chiefly to boozing the Panhandle country. His success as a real estate agent caused him to receive several flattering business offers from the immigration departments of western railroads, but he declined them all.

During the time of Rev. Carhart's residence in Sherman he had a great friend and constant associate in T. H. Walker, an investor and scientist of local note. They spent hours together in discussing Mr. Walker's ideas of the application of electricity as a motive power. Rev. Carhart contended in those early days that the time was not far distant when horseless carriages would become of general use and that they would be propelled by electricity. Mr. Walker was a civil and mechanical engineer, and he had traveled extensively. He had complete plans for the harnessing of Niagara falls with electricity. He made these plans thirty years before the project was passed upon as feasible and became a reality. These old plans are still in the possession of his family. Mr. Walker died a number of years ago without seeing his dream for utilizing the power of Niagara realized, and he watches the progress of improvements of the modern automobile with a lively interest.

IMMENSE ZOO

Is Nearing Completion at Hamburg—Biggest in World.

Hamburg, Nov. 15.—The great natural zoo that Carl Hagenback is building here is rapidly approaching completion. The spectacle of wild animals from every part of the globe, living as they do in their native haunts, without enclosing rails or bars, will soon be afforded the visitors to this city.

One part of the zoo, for instance, will be devoted to the Arctic region. Here polar bears, sea lions and reindeer will be shown, all apparently living together. Invisible ditches, however, will divide the carnivorous animals from the others, and by the same means and helped by rock barriers the whole of the Arctic zone is enclosed.

In another part of the zoo a large lake is being completed, where some 400 wild birds will disport themselves. On a grassy plain ruminant animals of every description will roam together.

MORE MEDALS

Will Be Made By the Government for Old Heroes.

Washington, Nov. 15.—At the request of the Secretary of war, Attorney General Moody has rendered a decision upon the legislation of April 22, 1904, relating to medals of honor. This legislation provided that 3,000 medals be prepared for the purpose of replacing medals which have been heretofore issued.

An officer of the civil war, who was granted a medal during that period, desired to secure one of them and also to retain the old one, and made such an application to the secretary of war.

The secretary referred the matter to the attorney general and in an opinion, approved by Acting Secretary Oliver, it is held that if a new medal is issued, it must be to replace one of the old medals which has been lost or that the old medal must be surrendered. The holder of an old medal is not compelled to surrender it, but may retain it if he prefers it to one of the new medals.

Found Bunyan's Anvil.

London, Nov. 15.—An anvil used by Bunyan, when he was a tinker, has been found. It will be sold at auction. It weighs sixty pounds and is roughly stamped with Bunyan's name, residence and the date 1647. It is stated that its genuineness is not to be disputed.

LEADER NEEDED BY THE POOR INDIANS

No Booker Washington Has Yet Appeared Among Them.

No Hope Entertained That This Generation Will Produce One.

FRANCIS LEUPP'S ADDRESS

Chicago, Nov. 15.—A special from Washington to the Chronicle says:

Francis Leupp, commissioner of Indian affairs, agrees with Dr. Lyman Abbott that the great need of the American aborigine is for an Indian Booker Washington, but he doubts whether the present generation of red men is capable of producing such a leader, and he has no strong hopes that one be forthcoming out of any generation in the near future.

Dr. Abbott in his address at the Lake Mohonk conference had expressed the belief that an industrial leader could accomplish for the Indians what Booker Washington is doing for the negro. Commissioner Leupp concedes that this would be true were the Indian race only capable of producing a Booker Washington.

"Dr. Abbott's idea is an admirable one," said Mr. Leupp, "but at the very outset it presents one serious difficulty. The rise of Booker Washington was an evolution from conditions which have long existed in the life of the negro, but which are completely absent in the case of the Indian."

"Washington came on of ancestry that had been living by means of manual labor for centuries, for it must be borne in mind that negroes of Africa are not indolent, do-nothing savages, as we are apt to think of them; on the contrary, they are natural-born agriculturists, whose avocation for countless generations has been the cultivation of their fields and patches."

"The Indian, on the contrary, was not an agriculturist, but a hunter and fisher pure and simple. When he became troublesome the whites found it much easier to push him further west than to endeavor to convert him to the white man's way. When it was no longer possible to move him further west, it became necessary to keep him up on reservations."

"The popular belief was that as a man nothing could be made of him, and with that idea firmly fixed in the government and people cheerfully fed and supported him. The one aim was to keep him from making trouble, and to that end he was fed, clothed and made as happy as possible, with little attempt to elevate or change his primitive standard of economics."

"Because of these facts I think it would be difficult to raise up an Indian Booker Washington. No Indian has in his blood that which came down to Washington through his ancestors. I am fully convinced that the Indian will never start on his upward progress until he is placed on the same basis of industry as that upon which Washington insists on placing the negro. However, I do not entirely despair of such a thing. For all there are so many obstacles in the way, such as the lack of inherent industry, old tribal animosities, lack of a common tongue, etc., I sincerely hope that the day may come when we shall note the rise of some such person."

"Should we ever get among the Indians a man of the type of Booker Washington he would, in respects other than those that I have mentioned, find the Indian excellent material to work upon. The Indian is naturally clever with his hands, a good mechanic, possessed of a highly developed sense of the artistic, and I look in future to Indians attaining considerable success as painters, sculptors, builders, engineers, etc."

"The negroes of this country came largely from the same quarter of Africa and had acquired a solidarity and homogeneity which does not exist among the Indians. The latter are divided into small tribal groups, speaking languages as distinct one from the other as English is from Russian, and oftentimes hating one another as much as they would hate the whites. An Indian Washington would have, first of all, to bring the Indians to that condition of unity where they could be considered as a mass, as a people, before he could make any headway. Those who deal with the Indians are obliged to adopt one mode of approaching the members of one tribe and a radically different one in doing business with another, and this, so far as my perception goes, seems to offer the most serious obstacle to the reformer who should undertake to do for the Indian what Washington is doing for the negro."

THE REMEDY

MUST WAIT FOR DIAGNOSIS OF DISEASE, SAYS GARFIELD.

Much Graft in Private As Well As Public Affairs, He Thinks.

Washington, Nov. 15.—Commissioner of Corporations James H. Garfield, in an address at the banquet of the hardware association here discussed the questions of graft in the government and the commercial and industrial evils.

"You have heard that graft is rampant," he said. "This must not be taken lightly. It is true that there are things in the federal government that are wrong, but when you compare them with things that are good, you will find them incomparable. Things are wrong in private business affairs as well as in the public affairs. We should not attempt to apply a remedy before we know what the disease is. The inquiry conducted by this bureau into the workings of the corporations means that the federal government is the sovereign of all the people and has a right to protect one man against the alliance of others."

The speaker stated that the problems now are as mighty and important as ever our forefathers had to contend with. On every hand we are confronted with commercial and industrial evils. "To attempt to remedy them is useless, unless the blow be aimed at their root," he said. "At present it is impossible to effect any permanent cure; only penalties can be imposed where wrongs are discovered."

"If you, my friends, are to have the advantages of corporate formation, you must submit your affairs to the sovereign of creation. Let the people know who you are and with whom they are dealing. The government must be vested with the power to deal with the incorporations engaged in interstate commerce, such as it has regarding the national banks, to keep itself informed as to what they are doing, how they are doing it and what their intentions are. The question is whether the corporations shall rule the people or be ruled by the sovereign by which they are created."

Mr. Garfield declared that in its efforts to expose irregularities of incorporations the heartiest co-operation of the manufacturers is needed.

NORTHERN FRONTIER

May Be Fortified By the United States As Protection Against Canada.

Washington, Nov. 15.—The United States proposes to fortify her northern frontier against an invasion from Canada. This becomes apparent through the report of the chief engineer of the United States army. In the course of the voluminous report, wherein no general interest would attach to them, are the outlines of reports from engineer officers on the proposition to place big guns and fortifications at Chicago, Buffalo, Cleveland and other lake points.

While no such suggestion or announcement is made in connection with the report, it is understood here that the activity of the United States in this direction is not due to any present fear of hostilities or to any feeling against us by our northern neighbors. Instead, it is proposed as a precautionary measure, which will offset similar precautions taken by the Canadians themselves. It develops that in connection with the great transcontinental lines which the Canadian government is encouraging through subsidies, there is also in course a great inland waterway. This waterway is for commercial purposes, but that its military possibilities are not lost to the government is indicated by the financial support which the government is giving to it. The waterway is to go from Ottawa to Lake Ontario, and from Lake Ontario to Hamilton.

Pineville's Historic Mound Is Passing

For more than a century Pineville's historic mound has possessed a peculiar interest for the newcomer, sightseer and citizen, the reason being on account of the history associated with it from the earliest times and that grouped about it in later years, says H. H. Fuson in the Courier-Journal.

When Boone came here in the latter part of the eighteenth century, while the country was yet a vast wilderness, infested with wild beasts and used as a hunting ground by savage Indians, long before the onward march of the new civilization, this mound was found here, and showed signs of considerable age. The wilderness road of Boone passed nearby it and Cumberland Ford is only a short distance away.

The mound is in Pineville, on the main street leading from the depot through the central part of the town. It is 600 feet from the depot and 500 feet from the courthouse.

It is now being leveled down to half its former height for the purpose of erecting a brick dwelling thereon. Mr. A. J. Asher, a wealthy land owner of this place, owns the property and is erecting the building for his son-in-law, Dr. W. J. Hodges. It is to be one of the most handsome structures of the town.

Up to recent times it had been preserved for its historic interest, but the present owner lays aside the historical for the practical. It was formerly fifteen feet high and 200 or 250 feet in circumference.

Remains of Soldiers Found.
While digging the cellar for the new building a few weeks ago the remains of two Indian soldiers were unearthed. Engraved on their tombs were the names H. K. Roth and D. J. Pruitt, of the Forty-ninth volunteers, Company A, who had died while stationed here in the spring of 1862. Many other soldiers were buried here, but were removed soon after the close of the civil war.

The company to which they belonged afterwards moved to Cumberland Gap and was stationed there for a time.

Many curious incidents are associated with the mound, and different opinions are held as to its former purpose and use. But from the arrangement of the mound, from tradition and the kind of relics found in it the opinion generally held is to the effect that a prehistoric race, very probably the mound-builders, threw it up and used it as a place of habitation; and that later the Indians used it as a burying ground. It seems that this is probably true.

A number of years ago some men dug into one side and found pots, curiously shaped vessels and other relics and skeletons of human beings, resembling those of Indians. This pretty well confirmed the opinion already held by many of the oldest inhabitants.

One peculiar feature, and one bearing out the above view, of the build of this mound is that at a point two-thirds of the way down from the top is a strip of sand, even and connected, two inches wide, encircling the whole mound. This layer of sand was doubtless the top of the mound once and was deposited there from the river during high tide. And many of the oldest citizens are witnesses to the fact that all the place where Pineville is now, has repeatedly been under water in the highest tides, with the exception of the crest of this mound. In recent years, tide-water has reached the base of the mound. The Indians must have built it upon this sand; for below it were found the relics of the prehistoric race and above it the remains of Indians and soldiers.

But, before this, an image of a man, carved out of pine wood, and some extra large skulls and long bones were found under a cliff not far away. These were taken in charge by some men and sent to the state museum in Frankfort, as report goes, where they now are. The parts of skeletons were thought to be those of a larger and different people to those of the Indians.

Revisited By Indians.

This belief was further confirmed, when nine Indians who had once hunted over this ground, came here from the west in 1868. Through an interpreter they had with them, they said, in reply to questions put to them to that effect, that the mound was not erected by them, but by a former race of people whom they knew nothing of. They further claimed they did use it for a burying ground.

Other mounds throughout this section tend to show the same. One at Harlan, was slightly leveled down for the erection of the old courthouse when the town was first laid off. Some relics were found there. But when the old courthouse was torn down several years later for the erection of the new one, on leveling down the mound more, some very interesting, and in fact, some of the best relics ever found in this section were unearthed. Just after this "boom days" in Middlesboro, in 1892-3, a large mound to one side of the town was partially moved away for filling in the streets. So many skeletons, among them a number of relics were dug out, that the authorities stopped the workers, and it stands in its half-moved condition today.

Whence came these people? Who are they? These questions have been asked by historians, and theories as answers have been given without being at all satisfactory, but what evidence we have shows us conclusively that a prehistoric race was once here, lived and perished long before the arrival of the Indian or white man; and that they arrived at a stage of civilization far in advance of that the Indian ever attained.

FOR THANKSGIVING ENTERTAINING

As a Thanksgiving entertainment hardly anything is more novel or enjoyable than a "Thanksgiving frolic and dance," such as that with which a New England hostess used to celebrate the day at her home last season. With very little trouble it can be duplicated for this year's pleasure, says an exchange.

The house was most hospitably large and supplemented by a glass enclosed veranda. Dancing went on in the capacious dining room, whose hardwood floors were waxed to the required perfectly smoothness. Guests wore ordinary evening dress, but as a part of the entertainment the hostess had requested certain groups of her friends to array themselves for costume dancing, and these wore the style of dress which each special dance demanded. Besides the latter diversion there were some clever legerdemain tricks, a variety of stunts volunteered by versatile friends, who were glad to help with the fun of the frolic, and a supper. Everything, as might be supposed, decorations, music and food, included, was given a quaint, old-time flavor as far as was possible.

The mirrors and chandeliers and some of the doors were festooned with smilax. In the wall spaces between the windows and draperies were placed groups of small evergreen trees, each group having a number of Jack-o'-lanterns nestling at its base. The corner of the room where the tansieus sat was partially secluded with trees and banked with yellow and white chrysanthemums. Across the front of this and in an arch above more of the Jack-o'-lanterns were ranged in colors.

The supper room was pink and white, and chrysanthemums were used exclusively, but in the rest of the rooms chrysanthemums, potted plants of several kinds and vines were mingled. The veranda, made into a bower of green, was merely hung with Japanese lanterns, and by its simplicity pleasantly varied the decorative scheme.

In this cozy nook many comfortable chairs and settees had been placed, so arranged that their occupants all could easily look toward a special corner without discomfort to themselves. This space was devoted to the "Wonderful Master of Legerdemain boy," as a striking colored poster hung nearby announced. The "boy" in this case was an miniature of local reputation for sleight-of-hand work, who had been engaged for the occasion. "By his wonderful tricks he will raise ye hair on ye head in an agony of fearsome delight," the poster read further. There were several other posters about the room, and they contributed effectively to the general appearance. On each was some amusing direction to the guests, quaintly lettered and brightly colored. The one first to be seen on entering read, "Persons of a timid nature may enter with full assurance of safety." Next appeared this notice: "The blue laws and curfew are not in force tonight. Next Sabbath ye parson will preach on profane and promiscuous dancing." Others were:

"Beware of Indians and wildys. Indians are treacherous. Wildys is dangerous."

"There is a brew of punch in ye back parlor."

"Supper in ye kitchen at twelve of ye clock."

And supper was served in "ye kitchen" on a long table spread with such good things as oyster patties, cold turkey and cranberry sauce, rolls and sandwiches, mince and squash pie, ice cream, yokeag, cake, doughnuts, coffee and punch. Except that the range was in place and untroubled with anything but polish, the original appearance of the room was largely concealed by greenery. Strings of dried apples and bags and bunches of herbs were looped and strung about. Some of the food was served in wooden trenchers and bowls. The men served the seated women.

Many of the costumes worn were fairly heliochroms. Rich flowered silks and damask gowns that had been worn by colonial ancestresses did duty once again in the minut and "dance of ye Puritan maidens," which were daintily tripped that evening. Where an old frock was not to be had new ones were worn which aped those of gay gallants and cavaliers, military officers, Puritans in plain garb and high round hat for the men and sober Quaker gray, with kerchief and cap, for the maidens. The "Dutch dancers" arrayed themselves in fitting burgher garments, the women wearing short skirts and wooden shoes. One of them, dressed as a fishwife, carried a basket of herring. Not a few of the dancers had taken pains to represent some famous person. Every Indian present declared himself as a chief. "Big Chief Kickapoo" may never have been heard of in history, but his friends all recognized him at the frolic, war-painted and feathered as he was. In the dance he, like the others, was accompanied by his squaw. A rather short man claimed the name White-Man's-Little-Brother. The dance was led by Old-Man-Afraid-of-His-Wife, the most settled bachelor present. After ending their part of the programme with a ringing war-whoop the braves made a treaty of peace with the hostess.

This lady, decked as a grand Colonial dame, wore an old-time color combination of pale lavender brocade, old rose ribbon and lace.

Among those dances in which every one joined were: Two-step, "Hi, Betty Martin," contra dance, Portland fancy, Virginia reel, "Petty Coatee," and quadrille, "Ye Ladies' Choice." These old dances and old-time names gave to the programme the desired quaintness.

During a lull in the fun came an explanation of a certain poster which had aroused much curiosity. It read, "One of our most fashionable gallants has been lately captured a wilder, which he lead through the rooms." The bear proved to be a well-known and popular young minister, who submitted to being led among the guests by his fun-loving choir master. The latter was clad in pale blue and white, and dragged his captive at the end of ribbons of the same color.

PENSION LISTS

Will Not Be Allowed to Be Inspected By Political Managers in the Future.

Washington, Nov. 15.—By direction of Pension Commissioner Warner, political managers in the future will not be allowed access to the list of pensioners in each state, as has been the case in some of the states heretofore.

Wm. A. Taylor, a Democratic politician in Ohio, complained to Mr. Warner that Senator Dick had copied the Ohio list, but the Democratic management had had a similar request turned down.

"It is quite true that Senator Dick was given access to the Ohio list to make at his own expense some corrections on a list he already had," said Commissioner Warner. "It is equally true that the Democratic managers were refused this privilege for the very plain reason that they made no such request."

It was stated that Mr. Taylor had filed a protest with the secretary of the interior over his alleged treatment. Inquiry at the office of the secretary developed the fact that no charges or protest had been filed.

Mr. Warner said that to avoid trouble of any kind in the future no one would be allowed to have access to the list.

HIGH SALARIES THE PRICE OF GENIUS

$100,000 and $150,000 a Year Not Too Much in Some Cases.

J. Pierpont Morgan Would Be Worth One Million a Year to Some.

QUESTION OF RIGHT MAN

New York, Nov. 15.—Salaries of $100,000 and $150,000 are not too high, in the opinion of E. H. Gary, one time judge in Illinois. As chairman of the executive committee of the $1,000,000,000 United States steel corporation, he draws a salary of $100,000, and he thinks J. P. Morgan would be a bargain at $1,000,000 a year to any big bank. The steel trust has two men drawing $100,000 each, and pays annually $125,000,000 in wages and salaries.

"It is not that the salaries paid to the heads of great business corporations today are too large; the real question is whether the right men are drawing the salaries," said Mr. Gary.

"No man acquainted with the increased responsibilities arising out of modern business methods and conditions will say that $100,000 is too large a salary for the president of the New York Life Insurance company or that $150,000 is an unreasonable salary for the president of the Mutual Life Insurance company. These corporations handle hundreds of millions of dollars and slight errors of judgment might cost them sums so large as to make such salaries seem trifling by comparison.

"The tendency of the business world just now is not to search for men who will take low salaries, but to find men who will deserve high salaries," he continued. "That is the policy of the steel corporation and it is the policy of all other flourishing business enterprises. The question of the size of the salary is a small matter compared to the question of the right man in the right place. One man may be cheap at $100,000 a year, while another man in the same position might be dear at $10,000 a year.

"In looking over the capable and successful men of the world for large figures one naturally thinks, for instance, of J. Pierpont Morgan and opportunities for a salary. But can we doubt that any of the great banks of the world could well afford, as a matter of sound business, to pay Mr. Morgan $1,000,000 a year for his undivided services?

"In my judgment Mr. Morgan's services, viewed from the commercial standpoint, would make a salary of $1,000,000 a year look small. Yet some other man filling the same place, or trying to fill it, might not be worth $50,000 or even $25,000 a year.

"Take such a man as President Cassatt of the Pennsylvania Railway company, who has had to determine the expenditure of $150,000,000 within a comparatively short time. Think of the knowledge, experience and good judgment required to deal with problems like that—not only the main policy, but the complex details upon which the main policy must rest. To get at a common sense view of Mr. Cassatt's salary, try to imagine what it would cost his company if his policy in spending that $150,000,000 was unsound; if he overestimates or underestimates future markets, if he spent the

After trying a number of remedies that gave me very little relief, if any, I got a box of Doan's Kidney Pills at Alvey & List's drug store and began to take them as directed. money in the wrong direction, if he borrowed the money at the wrong time.

"Mr. Cassatt is the right man in the right place, and the size of his salary would never induce the owners of the Pennsylvania railway to consent to his retirement.

"Take a man like Marvin Hughitt, president of the Chicago and Northwestern road. Do you think that the stockholders of that enterprise would hesitate to double his salary rather than lose his services?

"I meet a good many business men, and this question of salaries is naturally a common subject of discussion. But I do not find that business men, that capitalists, that property owners, complain of salaries. Their one idea is to get hold of the right men. They realize that that makes all the difference between going ahead and going backward, between success and failure.

"The truth is that the American capitalist is generous. He is willing to pay for success. That is one of the great secrets of the success of American industry and commerce.

"It is not always the question of money that attracts men. It is often the satisfaction in getting a large salary simply because it is a substantial sign of success.

"I know that in my own case money could not tempt me to leave the service of the steel corporation. Of course, I am glad to get a salary of $100,000 a year, but when that salary was first named it pleased me most because it was the largest salary paid to anyone in New York, so far as I knew.

"To come here I had to give up my life connections, a law practice that was agreeable to me and an income of something like $75,000 a year. The gentlemen who asked me to become president of the Federal Steel company had decided that I was the one man they wanted. That was their judgment. I could have had a larger salary, but the sum agreed upon was satisfactory to me. I am quite sure that they would not have stopped at a larger figure."

GREAT EXHIBITION

IS BEING PREPARED FOR THE LONDON HIPPODROME.

Unique Entertainment Will Be Presented for the Children.

London, Nov. 15.—The hippodrome is going to make a great feature of its Christmas programme, for which two productions suitable for children and the festive season are now in preparation.

One of these is to be called, "A Circus in Minerva," which Mr. Stoll, the manager, says is of the nature of a revue. It will show the arrival on the planet Minerva of a circus that has been carried there in a meteor from the earth. The author assumes in this instance that all of the inhabitants of the far-off planet are men, and the appearance there of women from the earth causes the utmost astonishment among the natives.

The treatment of the fantasy will show some of the supposed differences between ourselves and our celestial cousins. For instance the Minervian doctors, astonished to hear laughter for the first time and, thinking it is a novel form of disease, attempt to cure the visitors, only to become victims of it themselves when the London company gives a circus performance.

The second event of this Christmas entertainment will end in the greatest mechanically worked sensation ever attempted at the hippodrome. "My Flood and Field" is the title of the water sketch, and the scene is laid in the lake country of Cumberland. The startling incident, for the working of which special machinery is being built, will illustrate the bursting of a dam in sight of the audience and the sinking of houses in the flood.

For the coliseum Christmas programme Mr. Stoll has also formed his plans, and here, in addition to the sketch to be called "The Charloeters," which a race of three four-horse chariots will take place, he is getting ready other dainty sketches suitable to the season.

Underground Fissures Rent By Earthquakes Supply Great Basin.

Los Angeles, Nov. 15.—Through great underground fissures, rent by earthquake shocks, the waters of the Gulf of California are pouring into the old Salton basin and resistlessly forcing the new Salton Sea to sea level. Doubt no longer exists as to the origin of this vast inland sea, which now skirts the main line of the Southern Pacific for nearly 100 miles and stretches away on either side of the track twenty-five miles to the foothills.

WILL SEARCH FOR OLD DIAMOND MINES

Exploration To Be Made In Mexico For The Sparklers Very Soon.

Mexico City, Mexico, Nov. 15.—A thorough search is finally to be made for the diamond fields believed to exist in the remote section of the state of Guerrero. A strong company is now being organized to conduct the exploration and exploration. There is circumstantial evidence which amounts to almost positive proof that there is a diamond mine in that region. The location of the mine is believed to be known to the Indians who have their homes in the Chilapa district. Four years ago Messrs. Dupla and Courmont, two prominent Frenchmen of this city, went in search of the diamond mine. They were nearing its reported location, when they were attacked by natives and both were killed.

Vicente Guerrero, one of the heroes of the Mexican independence, is said to have known of this mine, and to have given two of the stones to Kurblide. Distinguished professors of the school of mines of this city, Senors Andres del Rio, Coterio and Del Moral, examined stones which they declared to be diamonds as pure as those of India. The story of the diamond mine was told by Prof. Manuel del Rio in 1833 at a meeting of the society of geography and statistics of Mexico. Prof. del Rio was a famous mineralogist, whose name became well known in Europe through his discovery of vanadium. He died in 1848.

The professor had been intimately acquainted with Gen. Guerrero. The latter one day told him that while campaigning in the section of the country now known as Guerrero, named after him, his men had

TOO SWIFT FOR CAINE.

Novelist, Though Delighted With the United States, Will Not Return.

London, Nov. 15.—Entirely pleased with his American trip, but worn out as a result of excessive American hospitality, Hall Caine returned home last week.

"I am afraid," said he to an interviewer, "that I have not returned to England in the best of health. An American goes fast, but he makes his guest go still faster. The pace by which an American kills himself compares in velocity with the pace by which he kills foreign guests only as the pace of a 5-cent trolley car compares with that of a sixty horse power automobile.

"Dinners, suppers, speeches—and every American is a born speech-maker—such is the daily experience of a foreigner, so-called, whom an American delights to honor.

"I have too many friends in America to permit my ever going to that hospitable country again. Nowhere is an Englishman so much at home outside his own country as when he travels in the United States; nowhere is he so sure of an immediate and hearty welcome; nowhere is he so certain to find alma and institutions that have all his sympathy and that command all his heart; nowhere does he meet with men and women more able and earnest and more brotherly and sisterly."

OH SORROW!

James Hazen Hyde is Preparing to Leave America Now.

New York, Nov. 15.—James Hazen Hyde, former first vice president of the Equitable life insurance society has given order for the sale of the costly furniture and other effects in his country place at Hay Shore, Long Island, and they will be put under the hammer within a few days. It is expected that shortly after the sale Mr. Hyde will go abroad to live.

The effects to be sold at auction include costly paintings by the old masters, bric-a-brac, statuary, furniture bronzes and antiques. There are several car loads to be disposed of and the articles will be knocked down to the highest bidder. Nothing will be reserved.

After disposing of the control of the Equitable a few months to Thos. F. Ryan Mr. Hyde sold his magnificent estate on Long Island. A little later he sold to Edwin Hawley, the railway magnate and financier, his luxurious private car Bay Shore, which he had built a few years ago at a cost of $50,000. Mr. Hyde has also recently severed his connection as an officer with various financial institutions in this city and Pittsburgh.

SAILS FOR AMERICA.

Actress Refuses to Delay Trip Despite Trouble With Knee.

Paris, Nov. 15.—Sarah Bernhardt has sailed for New York on La Touraine. This despite her knee trouble, which necessitated the painful operation of fringing. A correspondent asked: "Will your sick knee carry you down to the boat-train?" "It will have to," replied the Divino Sarah. "In the first place, I can't let people begin to say I am losing the activity of youth. In the second place, I and my Impresario have already spent, before we board the steamer, more than 200,000 francs; third, I will not disappoint my excellent friends in America; fourth, I am determined to confute in the only effective way the ridiculous story that I dare not visit Cuba because I once stigmatized Cubans as 'coons in evening dress' or 'apes in human garb.' Envy invented this story and sensationalism spread it. I am going to nail it as a lie to the counter.

"I shall be gone five months from Paris. When I return I shall begin immediately to work for Catulle Mendès's 'Saint Theresa.' "Rest? Oh, I don't need rest. My art is all my refreshment. It comforts, restores, rejuvenates."

SUNLIGHT CURE.

Dr. Kirschberg Explains His New Treatment for Cancer.

Frankfort, Germany, Nov. 15.—Dr. Kirschberg, the noted practitioner, whose cure for cancer by sunlight has attracted wide attention, explains the cure as follows:

"Last winter I discovered that I was suffering from a skin cancer of the ear and consulted noted specialists on the necessity of an operation. Before going under the knife I concluded to gather strength on a little vacation and went to Lake Geneva. There I promenaded daily for a good many hours, persistently turning my ear toward the southern sun. After a week or so I noticed that the cancerous growth was disappearing and crumbling off.

"I ascribed this to exposure to the sun, and, of course, sought the exposure more than ever. After exposing the afflicted ear to the strong southern sun for a month, the inflammation disappeared and the ear looked as natural as its mate."

The doctor says the cancer cells were destroyed by the rays of the sun and advises that sufferers spend the winter in high altitudes, in a mild climate, because the intensity of the sun's rays is greater in high altitudes, while the air is free from bacilli.

THOUSAND-MILE MARCH

To Fort Sam Houston Started By Kansas Field Battery.

Junction City, Nov. 15.—The Sixth battery of field artillery, which has been stationed at Fort Riley since the Spanish-American war ended, started on a thousand-mile march to Fort Sam Houston, Texas. The battery carries a new equipment of rapid-firing field guns and a long line of transportation wagons. The battery is commanded by Capt. George W. Gatchell.

It will camp tonight at Herrington. On its march the battery will go through Wichita, Kan., Oklahoma City, Okla., Pauls Valley, I. T., and Gainesville, Fort Worth, Waco and Austin, Tex. It will, it is said, be the longest march ever made by an artillery organization in the United States.

KISS ALBUM A PAD

LONDON GIRL INVENTS COMPANION FOR AUTOGRAPH BOOK.

Impression of Lips Printed on Page Distinctly by First Touching Them Lightly to Carmine Tinted Substance.

London, Nov. 15.—A clever young Kensington woman, Miss Evans, has devised a new kind of autograph album that is likely to be popular. It is contrived so as to enable the young woman not only to collect the autograph signatures of her friends, but to preserve also the imprints of their kisses.

The book is equipped with a little pad of a soluble carmine-tinted substance upon which the lips first are lightly pressed so as to take up a little of pigment.

Then the kiss is imprinted upon the page in a space provided for the purpose, leaving a clear carmine record of the pressure of the lips. By the side of the kiss print space is another for the autograph and the date, and together the kiss and the signature make a precious and intimate keepsake.

"It is really marvelous what a lot of character there is in kisses," says Miss Evans. "People who are not students of the subject have no idea how they vary. You know no two persons' kisses are the tiniest bit alike."

"I have 200 in one album and there is not one of them that you could possibly mistake for any other. The kiss prints look like the kisses, too."

"The kiss album bears on the title page the motto:
"Give me a kiss for a keepsake and a quotation dear as the remembered kisses."

"To be complete the kiss album should be sprinkled liberally with kissing quotations from novelists as well as poets."

BOHEMIANS PROSPER

In Their New Colony in Texas—Are Honest and Industrious.

Paris, Tex., Nov. 15.—Notice was recently called to a colony of forty of fifty Bohemians in Delta county, adjoining county to this (Lamar) and their exceedingly prosperous condition. The Bohemian colonists are everywhere known as people of tremendous energy and remarkable for their thrift, and the Delta county colonists are no exception, as is evidenced by their bank accounts and bursting wheat bins, filled by them in the most adverse conditions of weather.

When, last June and July, almost this entire section of Texas was deluged by daily rainfalls for weeks and many hundreds of thousands of acres of fine wheat from Wills Point to Dallas, and from Dallas to the Indian Territory line, were lost from damp rot, these Bohemians gathered their entire crops. Following the methods employed in their native land, their crops were stacked in the fields, and kept covered until the weather permitted threshing them, while the crops of the native Texans were only "shocked" in small piles, and consequently rotted and were lost.

A peculiarity of these Bohemians is their common contempt for the mule as a work animal. They own nothing but broad mares of Percheron or Hamiltonian blood and raise their own stocks. One Bohemian paid for an $8,000 farm in two years off the proceeds of the land.

GALA DAY ON EXILE'S RETURN.

Quarter of a Million French Welcome Decade With Feast and Reception.

Paris, Nov. 15.—Sunday saw the return of Paul Deroulede, when a quarter million people gathered to give the returning exile one of the greatest receptions. The same day, indeed almost the same hour, saw 50,000 people sit down to the greatest luncheon probably ever organized with several miles of tables and with tons of eatables.

Rural France was out for a holiday and enjoyed itself. After the reception the diners "fell to" and soon caused the feast to disappear. Then the crowds surged to the Grande Rue, Tour Eiffel, and all over the Trocadero quarter, marching and singing, some going to the Champs Elysees, where they joined the crowd waiting for Deroulede.

The exile's carriage was so impeded by the great crowd that it was after 5 when it reached the Elysee palace and the hotel, where a halt was made.

Where Le Page Lacked Nerve

By FRANK H. SWEET

Copyright, 1905, by Frank H. Sweet

"But, factor, it seems to me like putting our hands into another's cache," remonstrated Le Page bluntly.

"It's putting our hands upon shoulders that are bending over our own cache," retorted the factor angrily. "Our company came into this country first and ranged it from the divide to the snow line unmolested, and now these interlopers sneak in and appropriate the best trapping valley in the whole section. They must be driven out, Le Page, and you must do it."

"Well," thoughtfully, "I suppose I could do it. But from the divide to the snow line is a big territory for one company to claim, factor, and I don't think any of our men have been into that particular valley for more than two years. It is fifty miles away and off our regular line of work. I generally scatter my men along the river country on account of the animals coming to drink and the easier transportation."

"That faulity could remain in the valley a lifetime and not really hurt us. You know that, factor. Besides, they have just as much right here as we have. And there is another thing," coolly, and ignoring the wrath that was flaming to the factor's face, "ever since I heard how they went to the valley last winter, just a young man and his wife, across 300 miles of bleak country as even a trapper ever turned his back to, I have wished that I could meet them and shake hands."

"You seem to know all about them," sneered the factor.

"Not a word more than you," Antoine was up that way trapping and told you what he told the rest of us. He met the man himself and heard him say that he had not been married long and that the two had reached the valley in good condition. That is all, only you and I look at things differently."

"Oh, messieurs, messieurs, do not let him die."

The factor's wrath could not contain itself longer.

"Perhaps so," he stormed, "but you'll do this just as I look at it. You're under contract to the company."

"For five years," calmly, "to hunt, trap and do the work according to my ability. I am satisfied."

"Well," menacingly, "you will take four men and go to this valley and clear it of its vermin."

"Any way you like, so long as it's done thoroughly," snapped the factor. "You never asked a question like that before. You must be losing nerve. Shoot them, burn them, drown them; there are ways enough. Or no?"—controlling himself with an effort—"perhaps you'd better not do that. Stories get out and prejudice the country against us. Frighten them off. A good way is to destroy their camp and provisions and take away all their weapons, then give them so many hours to leave the country. They'll go all right. I followed that method until I was given charge of a post."

And, Le Page?

"Yes, factor."

"You will discontinue having your way of looking at things. You belong to the company, and I voice the company's orders. Understand? Any failure on your part, or leaving the service, means losing everything coming to you. That's the contract."

"I have read it," smilingly, "and my way of looking at things has never interfered with my work so far. You know that."

Yes, the factor knew it. But still his eyes followed the strong figure as it strode away with anything but friendly looks. There was bad blood between the two, and but for the fact that Le Page was worth any three men at the post and could control the others as no one else had ever done, and seemed to have an instinctive knowledge of where to obtain the best and most potent, he would long ago have found means of getting rid of him. Moreover, he had an uneasy feeling that the company valued Le Page's services almost as much as it did his own.

Inside of half an hour Le Page had selected ammunition and provisions and picked out the four men who were to accompany him—the best at the trading post, he believed, and men after his own heart; strong, wiry, indefatigable, who would fight or work so long as strength lasted and on whom he could depend. The work was not such as he would like, but that did not matter; it was the company's and he was in the company's service.

The second day they reached the head of the valley, entering it by way of a ravine through which plunged an icy stream. This they waded, beyond the ground sloped rapidly and was thickly wooded. They could overlook most of the valley.

"Now, men," said Le Page, "suppose we scatter and work gradually down the valley, examining the woods thoroughly. They have likely built a cabin somewhere, and if they see us first and suspect our errand they may try to keep out of sight."

"Wait a moment," exclaimed one of the men. "Isn't that smoke half a mile or so down yonder, over those pine tops?" And he pointed with his finger.

Le Page shaded his eyes.

"Yes, that's smoke," he said after a sharp scrutiny, "and it seems near the stream. They've built there on account of the water. Well, we'll follow right down the bank and settle things at once. But mind, men, no fighting unless there's need. We'll try to persuade them to leave peacefully. If they refuse to go, we'll use force. I think we can get back to the post by tomorrow night."

There was little need of caution, for the ground along the bank was covered with pine needles and gave no sound of their footsteps, and the trees were so thick as to conceal everything a few rods away. It was only when they had approached to within thirty yards that they saw the cabin.

But before they reached it a woman came hurrying out, wringing her hands.

"Oh, mon Dieu, mon Dieu!" she cried wildly. "My husband has been hurt by a falling tree and must have a doctor. It is sixty miles, and I have a little baby and cannot leave it and my husband. Oh, messieurs, messieurs, do not let him die!"

Le Page was a man of quick thought and prompt action and of sympathetic heart. Whirling to his men, he said bluntly:

"You will return at once to the factor. Tell him the expedition is a failure. Wait, I will send him a note."

He scribbled a few lines on the back of an envelope and gave it to one of the men. "Now go!" he ordered. The note read:

Factor—I did not have the nerve after all. I am going to the River des Quinze post after a doctor for the man who is hurt. I can go quicker than any one else. Of course I shall lose the $200 due me, since I leave the company's service.

LE PAGE.

But he did not lose the money. Three months afterward a letter reached him through an Indian runner. It was from the company's office in London and ran:

By advice of our correspondent at Quebec we have decided to appoint you to the factorship of the trading post which controls your action. Your predecessor we have transferred to another post. Yours respectfully, T. PAYNE, Secretary.

P. S.—Any arrears of salary due you will be sent from the Quebec office.

Stone Forests.

Stone forests are found in various parts of the world. In many cases they are hardened by some peculiarity of the atmosphere and are found standing just as they were when clothed with green foliage thousands of years ago. The Little Colorado river, in Arizona, has long been famous as a locality for such finds. At one place more than 1,500 cords of solid stone tree trunks, sections, limbs and logs were found by the government surveyors. Most of them were silicified, many seven to ten feet in diameter, and from twenty to eighty feet in height. Geologists say that the petrified trees of the Little Colorado were once covered with marl over 1,000 feet in depth. Some of the trees have been changed to jasper and have assumed various hues; others resemble opal, and when broken open the core is often found lined with crystals of the most beautiful tints.

Delicate Question of Service.

"Hah, love, old fol, I was wanting to see you, you know. I had just had my man call you up at your apartments, but got no answer. Not home, I suppose?"

"Oh, yes, dear, boy. But, you know, my man doesn't like to answer the phone when I am teasing myself. He says it puts him too much in the light of a serving man, don't ever know, and of course I could not think of doing it myself when he's there, old fol."

Brewster's Millions

CHAPTER XIV.

MISS DREW'S coffin was not graced by the presence of Montgomery Brewster. It is true he received an eleven hour invitation and a very cold and difficult little note of apology, but he maintained heroically the air of disdain that had succeeded the first sharp pang of disappointment. Colonel Drew, in whose good graces Monty had firmly established himself, was not quite guiltless of usurping the role of dictator in the effort to patch up a truce. A few nights before the coffin when Barbara told him that Herbert Ailing was to lead, he exclusively expressed surprise. "Why not Monty Brewster, Bab?" he demanded.

"Mr. Brewster is not coming," she responded calmly.

"Going to be out of town?"

"I'm sure I do not know," stily.

"What's this?"

"He has not been asked, father." Miss Drew was not in good humor.

"Not asked?" said the colonel in amazement. "It's ridiculous. Bab! Send him an invitation at once."

"This is my dance, father, and I don't want to ask Mr. Brewster."

The colonel sank back in his chair and struggled to overcome his anger. He knew that Barbara had inherited his willfulness and had long since discovered that it was best to treat her with tact.

"I thought you and he were"—But the colonel's supply of tact was exhausted.

"We were," in a moment of absent-mindedness, "but it's all over," said Barbara.

"Why, child, there wouldn't have been a coffin if it hadn't been for"—But the colonel remembered his promise to Monty and checked himself just in time. "I mean there will not be any party if Montgomery Brewster is not asked. That is all I care to say of the subject." And he stamped out of the room.

Barbara wept copiously after her father had gone, but she realized that it will was low and that Monty must be invited. "I will send an invitation," she said to herself, "but if Mr. Brewster comes after he has read it I shall be surprised."

Montgomery, however, did not receive the note in the spirit in which it had been sent. He only saw it as a ray of hope that Barbara was relenting and was jubilant at the prospect of a reconciliation. The next Sunday in morning an interview with Miss Drew but she received him with icy reserve. If he had thought to punish her by staying away it was evident that she felt equally responsible for a great deal of misery on his part. Both had been more or less unhappy, and both were resentfully obstinate. Brewster felt hurt and humiliated, while she felt that he had imposed upon her disgracefully. He was now ready to cry quits, and it surprised him to find her obstinate. If he had expected to dictate the terms of peace he was woefully disappointed when she treated his advances with cool contempt.

"Barbara, you know I care very much for you," he was pleading, fairly on the road to submission. "I am sure you are not quite indifferent to me. This foolish misunderstanding must really be as disagreeable to you as it is to me."

"Indeed!" she replied, lifting her brows disdainfully. "You are assuming a good deal, Mr. Brewster."

"I am merely recalling the fact that you once told me you cared. You would not promise anything, I know, but it meant much that you cared. A little difference could not have changed your feeling completely."

"When you are ready to treat me with respect I may listen to your petition," she said, rising haughtily.

"My petition?" He did not like the word, and his face quite deserted him. "It's as much yours as mine. I don't throw the burden of responsibility on me, Miss Drew."

"Have I suggested going back to the old relations? You will pardon me if I remind you of the fact that you came today on your own initiative and certainly without my solicitation."

"Now, look here, Barbara"—he began, dimly realizing that it was going to be hard, very hard, to bring her to reason.

"I am very sorry, Mr. Brewster, but you will have to excuse me. I am going out."

"I regret exceedingly that I should have disturbed you today, Miss Drew," he said, swallowing his pride. "Perhaps I may have the pleasure of seeing you again."

As he was leaving the house, deep under in his soul, he encountered the colonel. There was something about Monty's greeting, cordial as it was, that gave the older man a hint as to the situation.

"Won't you stop for dinner, Monty?" he asked in the hope that his suspicion was groundless.

"Thank you, colonel, not tonight," and he was off before the colonel could hold him.

Barbara was tearfully angry when her father came into the room, but as he began to remonstrate with her the tears disappeared and left her at white heat.

"Frankly, father, you don't understand matters," she said, with slow emphasis. "I wish you to know how that if Montgomery Brewster calls again I shall not see him."

"If that is your point of view, Barbara, I wish you to know mine." The colonel rose and stood over her, everything forgotten but the rage that went so deep that it left the surface calm. "Throwing aside his promise to Brewster," he told Barbara with dramatic simplicity the story of the rescue of the bank. "You see," he added, "if it had not been for that open hearted boy we would now be ruined. Instead of giving coffins you might be giving music lessons. Montgomery Brewster will always be welcome in this house, and you will see that my wishes are respected. Do you understand?"

"Perfectly," Barbara answered in a still voice. "As your friend I shall try to be civil to him."

The colonel was not satisfied with so cold blooded an acquiescence, but he wisely retired from the field. He left the girl silent and crushed, but with a gleam in her eyes that was not altogether to be concealed. The story had touched her more deeply than she would willingly confess. It was something to know that Monty Brewster could do a thing like that and would do it for her. The exultant smile which it brought to her lips could only be made to disappear by reminding herself sharply of his recent arrogance. Her anger, she found, was a plan which needed careful cultivation.

It was in a somewhat chastened mood that she started a few days later for a dinner at the Beallies. As she entered in her sweeping golden gown the sight of Monty Brewster at the other end of the room gave her a flutter in the heart, but it was an agitation that was very carefully concealed. Brewster was certainly unconscious of it. To him the position of guest was like a disguise, and he was pleased at the prospect of letting himself go under the mask without responsibility. But it took on a different color when the butler handed him a card which signified that he was to take Miss Drew to dinner. Hastily seeking out the hostess, he endeavored to convey to her the impossibility of the situation.

"I hope you won't misunderstand me," he said. "But it is too late to change my place at the table."

"It isn't conventional, I know, Monty. Society's chief aim is to separate engaged couples at dinner," said Mrs. Dan, with a laugh. "It would be positively compromising if a man and his wife sat together."

Dinner was untroubled before Monty could utter another word, and as she led him over to Barbara she said: "Hold a generous hostess who gives up the best man in the crowd so that he and some one else may have a happy time. I leave it to you, Barbara, if that isn't the test of friendship."

For a moment the two riveted their eyes on the floor; then the humor of the situation came to Monty.

"I did not know that we were supposed to do Gibson tableaux tonight," he said dryly as he proffered his arm.

"I don't understand." And Barbara's curiosity overcame her determination not to speak.

"Don't you remember the picture of the man who was called upon to take his late fiancée out to dinner?"

The awful silence with which this remark was received put an end to further efforts at humor.

The dinner was probably the most painful experience in their lives. Barbara thought you quite disinterested. He did not see the little game behind your melodrama. He would have torn up your check on the instant if he had suspected you were trying to buy his daughter."

"Does your father believe that?" asked Brewster.

"No, but I see it all now. His persistence and yours—you were not slow to grasp the opportunity he offered."

"Stop, Miss Drew," Monty commanded. His voice had changed, and she had never before seen that look in his eyes. "You need have no fear that I will trouble you again."

lara had come to it softened and ready to meet him halfway. The right kind of humility in Monty would have found her plastic. But she had very definite and right ideas of his duty in the premises, and Monty was too simple minded to seem to suffer and much too flippancy to understand. It was plain to each that the other did not expect to talk, but they both realized that they owed a duty to approachness and to their hostess. Through two courses at least there was dead silence between them. It seemed as though every eye in the room were on them and every mind were speculating. At last in sheer desperation Barbara turned to him with the first smile he had seen on her face in days. There was no smile in her eyes, however, and Monty understood.

"We might at least give out the impression that we are friends," she said quietly.

"More easily said than done," he responded solemnly.

"They are all looking at us and wondering."

"I don't blame them."

"We owe something to Mrs. Dan, I think."

"I know."

Barbara uttered some inanity whenever she caught any one looking in their direction, but Brewster seemed not to hear. At length he cut short some remark of hers about the weather.

"What nonsense this is, Barbara," he said. "With any one else I would chuck the whole game, but with you it is different. I don't know what I have done, but I am sorry. I hope you'll forgive me."

"Your assurance is amusing, to say the least."

"But I am sure—I know this quarrel is something we'll laugh over. You keep forgetting that we are going to be married some day."

A new light came into Barbara's eyes. "You forget that my consent may be necessary," she said.

"You will be perfectly willing when the time comes. I am still in the fight and eventually you will come to my way of thinking."

"Oh! I see it now," said Barbara, and her blood was up. "You mean to force me to it. What you did for father?"

Brewster glowered at her, thinking that he had misunderstood. "What do you mean?" he said.

"He has told me all about that wretched bank business. But poor

MAYOR JOHNSON TO ASSIST SUICIDES

If They Do Not Succeed in Beating Him to It.

Invites All in Trouble to Communicate With Him at Once.

WILL HELP ALL HE CAN

Chicago, Nov. 15.—A special from Cleveland to the Tribune says:

Mayor Tom Johnson, alarmed at the official report that there have been eighty-six suicides in Cleveland in the last nine months, has taken steps to check the carnival of self-destruction. He has appointed a commission, whose duty it will be to attempt to dissuade would-be suicides from taking their own lives.

The commission is made up of Director of Charities Cooley, W. A. Greeland, a member of the charity bureau, and State Senator-elect F. C. Howe.

Every man or woman in Cleveland who is contemplating suicide is invited to write a letter to the anti-suicide commission and tell their troubles. The members of the commission will then make an effort to remove the trouble.

For people despondent from non-employment the commission endeavors to obtain employment, while the needs and wants of others seeking aid are looked after. All three men are experienced in such work, and their labors so far have proved satisfactory.

In disposing of the subject further Mr. Cooley said:

"The number of suicides and attempted suicides in Cleveland is appalling. The need of some means to counteract the condition has been felt, and we have expressed our willingness to aid anyone who is in the depths of despair and to whom life no longer seems worth living."

"How many suicides would be prevented if the sick, poor and despondent had friends to go to, a place to get relief?"

Of the eighty-six suicides in the first nine months of this year the one word 'despondency' is the key word of all.

"Hard drinking, lack of work, sickness, domestic trouble lead men to suicide. Sickness, domestic trouble, lives of shame drive women to suicide. The records show that the latter cause is more frequent in the case of women."

"Women usually choose to end their lives with carbolic acid; men with pistols or knives. Of the eighty-six suicides sixty-three were men and twenty-three women. Most of these were tired of life, and had one of our commission been able to see them I am sure they would be living today."

"In nearly every case the kind word of a friend or helper will prevent self-destruction. And we are willing—yes, anxious—to extend aid to all disheartened people."

Constipation.

Health is absolutely impossible, if constipation be present. Many serious cases of liver and kidney complaint have spring from neglected constipation. Such a deplorable condition is unnecessary. There is a cure for it. Herbine will speedily remedy matters. C. A. Lindsay, P. M., Bronson, Fla., writes, Feb. 12, 1902: "Having used Herbine I find it a fine medicine for constipation." 50c a bottle. Alvey & List.
